Explanation of the Articles in the Calendar.

These pages are calculated for Toronto and Quebec, and for ordinary purposes will serve with sufficient accuracy for every city in Canada.

MOON'S PHASES.—This Table gives the times for the two meridians when the moon passes the geocentric longitudes of 0°, 90°, 180° and 270° east of the sun. It gives also the times of her greatest and least distance from the earth.

TWILIGHT.—In this table are given the times at which twilight begins in the morning and ends in the evening, i. e., the times when the sun's centre is 18° below the horizon.

GREATEST ELONGATION OF THE POLE STAR.—This column gives the greatest azimuth of the Pole Star east or west from the meridian as observed at a place in latitude 45°. When the greatest elongation corresponding to any other latitude is required, the number given in the column should be corrected by means of the following table.

Degrees of Latitude.....	42°	43°	44°	45°	46°	47°	48°	49°	50°
1st Correction for Degrees.....	-5' 58"	-4' 5"	-2' 5"	0' 0"	+2' 12"	+4' 32"	+6' 59"	+9' 34"	+12' 18"
2nd Correction for each minute of latitude.....	+ 1.9"	+ 2.0"	+ 2.1"	+ 2.2"	+ 2.3"	+ 2.5"	+ 2.6"	+ 2.7"

The 1st correction for the degrees of latitude is to be subtracted from the greatest elongation given in the calendar, or added to it, according as the degrees of latitude are less or greater than 45°.

The 2nd correction, which is always additive, is found by multiplying the number given in the third line of the table by the number of minutes in the latitude.

Thus for latitude 43° 20'... 1st correction = -4' 5"      2nd correction + 2.0 × 20 = + 40"
 "      "      47° 40'...      "      + 4' 32"      "      "      + 2.5 × 40 = 1' 40"
 "      "      45° 10'...      "      + 0' 0"      "      "      + 2.2 × 10 = 0' 22"

THE PLANETS.—The times of rising and setting of the five chief planets are calculated for Toronto, and are corrected for refraction. The times of culmination, although computed for the meridian of Toronto, will serve approximately for the whole of Canada. The meridian zenith distances, being designed merely to aid in finding the planets, have been given only to the nearest tenth of a degree, as seen from the latitude of Toronto.

When the planetary day is shorter than the mean solar day, and commences soon after the midnight of the preceding day, the planet will sometimes arrive a second time on the meridian before the expiration of the actual civil day. From analogous causes a planet will sometimes rise twice or set twice in the same civil day. When two culminations occur in the same day, or two risings or settings, the times of both are registered.

The times of the SUN'S RISING AND SETTING are given for the upper limb, and are corrected for refraction both for Toronto and Quebec.

The MOON'S RISING is given from full to change, and her setting from change to full.

The MOON'S MERIDIAN ZENITH DISTANCES are given to the nearest tenth of a degree for Toronto. They are not corrected for parallax or refraction.

The column SUN ON MERIDIAN gives the time that a watch should shew when the shadow of a sun dial is on the noon mark.

DECLINATION OF THE SUN AT APPARENT NOON.—This column gives the sun's declination at the instant he passes the meridian of Toronto.

MOON'S AGE.—This column shews to the nearest tenth of a day the Moon's age at Toronto Noon.

The column, MOON ON THE MERIDIAN, gives the mean time at which the moon's centre passes the meridian of Toronto.

The column, UPPER TRANSIT OF POLE STAR shews for every day the mean time at which the Pole Star makes its upper transit across the meridian of Toronto. It passes in the morning from April 9th to October 8th, and in the evening for the rest of the year.

The five last columns, although computed for Toronto, will serve with sufficient accuracy for the whole of Canada.

The time at which the lower transit of the Pole Star occurs may be found by adding 11 h. 58 m. 2 s. to the time of its preceding upper transit.

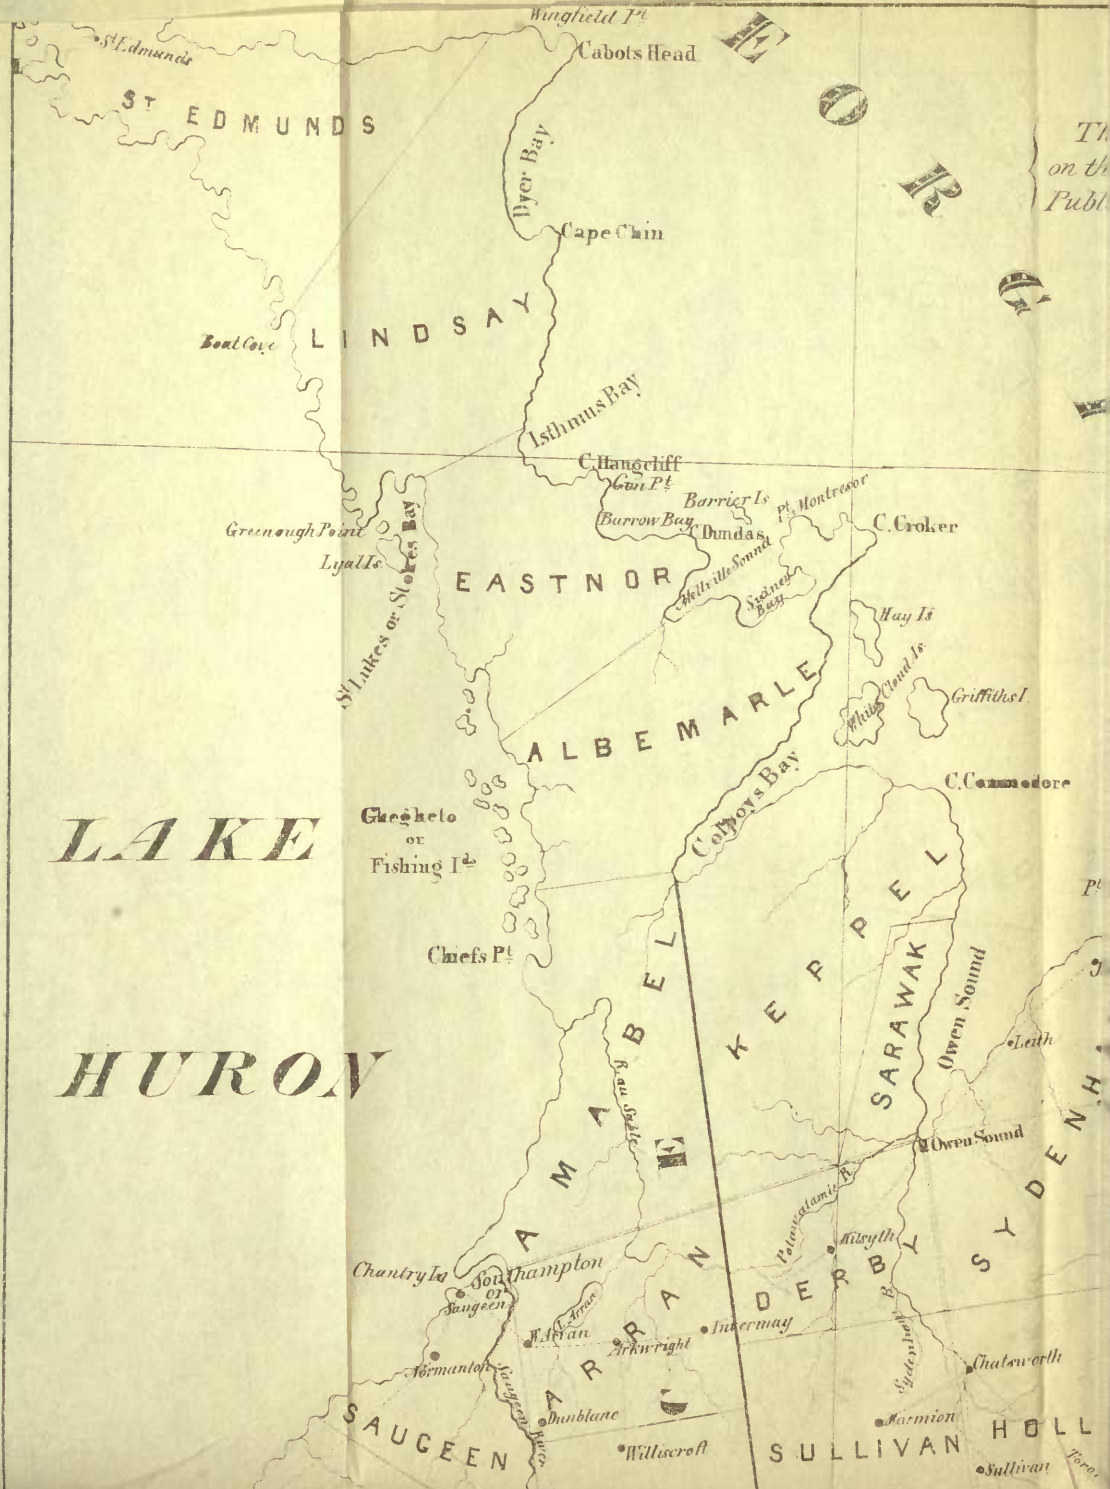

From the time of the upper transit of the pole star may be found the time of its greatest western or eastern elongation, by adding or subtracting the constants given in the annexed Table.

From the times of the upper transit of the Pole Star may be derived, with the aid of the following table, the times of culmination, and of the rising and setting of the principal fixed stars that appear above the horizon of Toronto.

Star Table.

To ascertain when any star found in the following table will be on the meridian, add the number in the left-hand column of figures to the preceding meridian transit of the pole star given in the calendar. To find the time of rising of a star, subtract the number opposite to it in the right-hand column of figures from the time of its meridian passage. For the setting of a star, add the same number to the time of its meridian passage. Those stars marked (.....) revolve in a circle of perpetual apparition, and do not rise or set at Toronto, or at places to the north of Toronto.

TABLE,

Shewing the Illuminated Portion of the Discs of Venus and Mars.

The numbers given in this table represent the width of the illuminated portion of the Discs measured along the diameter that divides the illuminated portion symmetrically—the apparent diameters of the planets being considered as unity.

Eclipses.

In the year 1861 there will be three Eclipses of the Sun and one of the Moon.

- I.—An annular Eclipse of the Sun, January 10, invisible in Canada.      III.—A partial Eclipse of the Moon, December 16, visible in Canada.
 II.—An annular Eclipse of the Sun, July 7, invisible in Canada.      IV.—A total Eclipse of the Sun, December 30, 31, visible as a partial one in Canada.

I.—ANNULAR ECLIPSE OF THE SUN, January 10.

The central line of this Eclipse commences about 5° east of Madagascar, and passing through South Australia in a N. E. direction terminates at a point in about latitude 4° N. and longitude 170° W. The Eclipse is visible as a partial one throughout Australasia and from a considerable portion of the Indian Ocean and the Indian Archipelago.

II.—ANNULAR ECLIPSE OF THE SUN, July 7.

This Eclipse is seen as a central one from parts of the Indian Archipelago, and as a partial one from the greater part of India, China, New Zealand and the northern parts of Australia.

III.—A PARTIAL ECLIPSE OF THE MOON, December 16.

The first contact with the shadow occurs at 158° from the northernmost point of the Moon's limb towards the east, and the last contact 150° towards the west. Magnitude of the Eclipse (Moon's diameter = 1) 0.185.

The following table shows the local time for certain stations at which the several phases occur on the morning of December 17.

IV.—TOTAL ECLIPSE OF THE SUN, Dec. 30, 31.

The Eclipse is first seen at 22<sup>h</sup> 14<sup>m</sup> 5<sup>m</sup> of Dec. 30, Greenwich mean time, from a point in the North Pacific, in latitude 90° 1' N. and longitude 74° 1' W.; and it is seen last at 4<sup>h</sup> 22<sup>m</sup> 0<sup>m</sup> of Dec. 31, Greenwich mean time, from a point in Eastern Africa in latitude 27° 13' N., and longitude 12° 38' E.

The line of central eclipse commences from a point south of Cuba, and, extending along the northern coast of South America and through a part of North Africa, terminates near Cape Matapan in Greece.

HOLYDAYS, DISASTROUS OCCURRENCES, &amp;c.

JANUARY.

The whirling tempest waves along the plain;
And on the cottage thatch'd, or lordly roof,
Keen fastening, shakes them to the solid base—
Huge uproar lords it wide. The clouds commix'd
With stars, swift gliding, sweep along the sky;
The cattle from the untasted fields return,
And seek, with moaning low, their wonted stalls,
Or ruminate in the contiguous shade.

FEBRUARY.

Now Shepherds, to your helpless charge be kind,
Raffle the raging year, and fill their pens
With food at will; lodge them below the storm,
And watch them strict; for from the bellowing East,
In this dire season, oft the whirlwind's wing
Sweeps up the burden of whole wintry plains,
At one wide waft, and whelms the hapless flock.

MARCH.

These naked shoots,
Barren as lances, among which the wind
Makes wintry music sighing as it goes,
Shall put their graceful foliage on again,
And, more aspiring, and with ample spread,
Shall boast new charms, and more than they have
All Nature feels the renovating force [lost.
Of Winter, only to the thoughtless eye in ruin seen.

APRIL.

As yet the trembling year is unconfirm'd,
And Winter oft at eve resumes the breeze,
Chills the pale morn, and bids its driving sheets
Deform the day delightful; so that scarce
The bitter knows his time, with bill inzulph'd
To shake the sounding marsh; or from the shore
The plovers when to scatter o'er the heath,
And sing their wild notes to the listening waste.

HOLYDAYS, DISASTROUS OCCURRENCES, &c.

MAY.

From the moist meadow to the wither'd hill,
Led by the breeze, the vivid verdure runs,
And swells, and deepens, to the cherished eye.
The hawthorn whiten, and the juicy groves
Put forth their buds, unfolding by degrees—
Till the whole leafy forest stands display'd
In full luxuriance to the sighing gales.

JUNE.

From brightening fields of ether fair disclose'd,
Child of the Sun, refulgent Summer comes.
In pride of youth, and felt through Nature's depths;
He comes attended by the sultry hours,
And ever fanning breezes, on his way;
While, from his ardent look, the turning Spring
Averts her bashful face; and earth and skies,
All smiling, to his hot dominion leaves.

JULY.

Echo no more returns the cheerful sound
Of sharpen'd scythe; the mower, sinking, heaps
O'er him the humid hay, with flowers perfume'd,
And scarce a chirping grasshopper is heard
Through the dumb mead. Distressful Nature pants.
The very streams look languid from afar;
Or, through th' unselter'd glade, impatient seem
To hurl into the covert of the grove.

AUGUST.

The Sun has lost his rage; his downward orb
Shoots nothing now but animating warmth,
And vital lustre; that, with various ray,
Lights up the clouds, those beauteous robes of Heaven,
Incessant roll'd into romantic shapes,

SEPTEMBER.

Crown'd with the sickle and the wheaten sheaf,
While Autumn, nodding o'er the yellow plain,
Comes jovial on; the Doric reed once more,
Well pleas'd, I tune—what'er the wintry frost
Nitrous prepared; the various blossom'd Spring
Put in white promise forth; and the Summer suns
Concocted strong rush boundless now to view;
Full, perfect all, and swell my glorious theme!

OCTOBER.

Hence from the busy joy-resounding fields,
In cheerful error, let us tread the maze
Of Autumn unconfin'd; and taste, reviv'd,
The breath of orchard big with bending fruit—
Obedient to the breeze and beating ray,
From the deep loaded bough a mellow shower
Incessant melts away. The juicy pear
Lies, in a soft profusion, scatter'd round.

But see the fading many color'd woods,
Shade deep'ning into shade the country round
Imbrown; a crowded umbrage dusk and dun,

To sooty dark. These now the lonesome Muse,
Low whispering, lead into their leaf-strown walk,
And give the season in its latest view.

The mean temperature of the year 1859 was  $44^{\circ}19$ , which differs only  $0^{\circ}08$  in excess from the average of 20 years.

The mean temperatures of the several months were in six instances above and six below their respective averages. As shown by the table, the warmest month absolutely, though relatively a cold one, was July, and the month that was absolutely coldest, though it was relatively warm, was February. The warmest month relatively was March, being  $6^{\circ}27$  above the average, and the relatively coldest month December, which was lower than the average by  $8^{\circ}08$ . December was the coldest December on record, being  $3^{\circ}2$  colder than the coldest December previously recorded.

The warmest day was July 12th, with a mean temperature  $79^{\circ}88$ , and the coldest January 10th, with a mean temperature  $-8^{\circ}65$ .

The highest temperature of the year was  $88^{\circ}0$ , being  $2^{\circ}5$  below the average. It occurred on July 12th, already mentioned as the warmest day. The lowest temperature of the year, occurring on January 10th, (also the coldest day in the year) was  $-26^{\circ}5$  being  $14^{\circ}7$  below the average, and the lowest ever recorded at the Observatory. The absolute annual range thus amounted to  $114^{\circ}5$ .

Humidity.—The mean humidity of the year was  $74^{\circ}$ , being nearly identical with that of 1858. The annual march, as exhibited in the monthly means, corresponded in its alternate increase and diminution very accurately with that of the preceding year, and in most cases showed nearly exactly the same numbers.

Clouds.—The extent of sky clouded, on the average of the year, was nearly 3-5ths of the hemisphere, and for nine months the sky was on the average at least half overcast. This accords with the experience of previous years, but in the distribution of cloudiness among the different months a want of parallelism is apparent.

Wind.—The resultant direction of the wind was N  $61^{\circ}$  W. The mean velocity of the year was 8.17 miles per hour, which was 1.60 miles above the average, and shows an increase on the two preceding years. The most windy month was April, with a mean velocity 10.79 miles, and the least windy month May, with a mean velocity 5.70 miles. The most windy day was March 10th, when the mean velocity was 31.16 miles, the greatest recorded; and the calmest 4th September 23rd.

The most windy hour, on the average of the year, was from 1 P.M. to 2 P.M., with a mean velocity 11.00 miles; and the calmest hour, from midnight to 1 A.M., when the mean velocity was 6.64 miles. These statements agree very nearly with those made in the preceding year, when the most windy hour was from 2 to 3 P.M., and the calmest hour from midnight to 1 A.M.

Rain and Snow.—The depth of rain 33.274 inches, shows an increase of more than 5 inches on that of the year 1858, and was 2.415 above the average. The depth of snow shows also an increase of 9 inches on that of the preceding year. This however was principally due to the heavy falls in December, as the amount that fell in other months was below the average in every case but in January, when it exceeded it only by about 3 inches. The total depth of rain and melted snow exceeded the average by 2.724 inches.

November was the most rainy month with respect to the amount of rain, and June with respect to its frequency. The smallest amount of rain fell in February, and the fewest rainy days occurred in December.

The heaviest rain occurred on August 23rd, when it fell to the depth of 1.655 inches, and the heaviest fall of snow on December 18th, when the depth was estimated at 6 inches.

The fall of rain was distributed over 127 days, and the fall of snow over 87 days, including 23 days which occurred in December alone; and there were 169 days only, or less than half the year, without either rain or snow.

The rain occupied about 514 hours and the snow about 380 hours in its fall, making thus a total of about 894 hours, or  $37\frac{1}{4}$  days, during which either rain or snow was falling; a result it is to be remarked differing only by about one day from that of last year.

The hour at which rain or snow was most frequent, was between 2 P.M. and 3 P.M., and the hour most free from rain and snow, on the average of the year, was between 1 A.M. and 2 A.M.

Thunderstorms.—There were 30 thunderstorms, reckoning as such those cases in which thunder or lightning occurred accompanied by rain or hail, besides 16 instances in which the thunder or lightning occurred singly or together, but without rain or hail.

Auroras.—The auroras in 1859 were not quite so numerous as in 1858, but there was an increase in the number of days in which those of the first class were observed. The aurora of August 28th, and the following days, was probably one of the most remarkable ever recorded, when considered with respect to its brilliancy, its duration, and the extent of the earth's surface at which it was visible. It was accompanied by an extraordinary magnetic disturbance. The magnets were deflected from their normal positions to the extent of about  $32^{\circ}7'$  in the declination and  $22^{\circ}20'$  in the dip; and in the horizontal and vertical components of the force there was a departure from their normals of about .08 and .008 of their respective normal absolute values. The magnitude of these deviations will be better appreciated when it is remembered that a disturbance is reckoned large when the declination differs  $5'$ , the dip  $1'$ , the horizontal force .0012, and the vertical force .00025, from their respective normals.

OUR MUNICIPAL SYSTEM.

The welfare of a people is in a great measure dependent on the goodness of its government. So the nature of the government must to some extent depend on the education, manners and habits of the people. It would be as ruinous to Canada to import into it the despotism of Russia, as it would be to Russia to import into it the free government of Canada.

It is astonishing to find, on a retrospect of history, how much the nations that shone brightest on the world's horizon were indebted for their lustre to their municipal institutions or a good system of self government. As with nations, so with the different parts of the same nation: the remark is applicable more particularly to cities and towns—those hives in which the industrious of mankind are in the habit of congregating. Originally, municipal government was restricted to cities and towns: it is only in modern times that the extension has been made to country places.

The growth of municipal government is a most interesting study. It had its origin with the Romans, and survived in many places the destruction of the Empire that gave it birth. The seed was widely sown, and though in some places choked by the thorns and briars of feudalism, in other places, where it fell on good soil, it grew, and increased as it grew, till its expansion, if witnessed by its originators, would be a subject of profound wonder.

The origin of the word "Municipal" itself, proves the parentage of the system about which we write. It is of Latin origin. It is derived from the word Municipes, the latin for a person entitled to the rights of a free citizen. Municipal government is emphatically a free government—one that can only flourish among free men—but like other human institutions, is liable to abuse.

The great features of the Municipal system are, that the people of different localities are incorporated; that they govern themselves by electing their governors; that the persons elected, usually called Councillors, hold office only for a limited period; and that through these local bodies the government is dispensed as required without the delay or expense of State legislation. The system is one of decentralization. There must be local bodies governing separate and independent localities, and yet all subject to one supreme governing power. These local bodies may be termed guilds, burghs, towns, townships, cities or counties; it matters not by what names they are called. The people who cluster together elect their council, and that council is endowed with restricted powers of legislation, which powers are to be exercised more for the good of the governed than of the governors. The head of the council may be a provost, mayor, warden or reeve; it matters not by what name he is called. His duty is to preside over the particular council or body of men over whom he is placed.

The origin of Municipal government in England is involved in much obscurity. Traces of it, however, may be found as early a period as the Conquest. During the time of the Norman kings, certain inhabitants of each burgh were entitled to choose officers for the administration of its affairs. The electors were generally the free male inhabitants of the constituency. Each freeman was required to render faithful account of his "lots" and "scots." By the word "scot" is signified a tax. By the word "lot" is meant the obligation to perform such public service as may fall to the lot of the particular freeman by rotation. Thus we see an unmistakable trace, though partaking somewhat of the rudeness of the times, of the system which is now the badge of British freedom and the pride of this colony. Further traces may be discovered by a reference to the history of the Norman period. The freemen or burgesses transacted their business in common council. In the course of time, when the burghs were incorporated, the name "common council" became attached to those few selected to manage the affairs of the burgh, when the great body of burgesses was too numerous for that purpose. The term common council is to this day familiar to us in municipal nomenclature.

The incorporation of burghs was the work of ages. The kings, for the purpose of raising revenue, or of more easily collecting it, frequently granted charters to towns of note. Thus, charter after charter issued under the great seal. Some charters conferred immunities on the burgesses affected. Each town, according to its influence, enjoyed more or less of these immunities. Hence, the system, so far from being uniform, was quite the contrary. Each burgh knew as little of its neighbor as it cared about its welfare. In those days towns were not knit together by ties of commerce or by the modern incidents of commerce—hands of iron. The facilities for travelling were few, and the desire little. Then, a journey of ten miles was looked upon as a feat quite as great as that of five hundred miles in these days of steam by land and by water.

The early charters, however, were not acts of incorporation; incorporation was the idea of more modern times. The first reference to anything of the kind, of which we have any record, occurred in 1412. In that year the citizens of Plymouth petitioned the Crown for a charter of incorporation. Many things combined to spread the incorporation of towns by royal charter. The political party in the ascendant for the time being never failed to make use of this means of strengthening themselves throughout the kingdom. In the time of William III. the influence of the Crown was greatly used for the incorporation of towns, with a view to serve political objects. So in process of time every place of mark became incorporated, enjoyed its privileges, and put forward its corporate importance. As a corporation lives for ever, some of these corporations were found on the statute book when the people represented by them, owing to fluctuations of population, could scarce be found. In this way we have the origin of rotten boroughs, and other constituencies akin to them, about which so much has lately been said and done in England.

The right of the people to choose their municipal governors is, so far as we can learn, of as great antiquity as the system of incorporating burghs. In Scotland, as well as in England, there are manifest proofs of the exercise of franchise at an early date.

The word "alderman" often occurs in Scottish codes. It is a word well known even in modern times, as applied to cities. It is a word of clear Saxon origin. The words "ald," "eald," and "alder," in Saxon, signify older; and thus the word alderman originally signified "older man," or a man who, compared with his neighbours, was of greater age, and so entitled to greater respect. In time the title was applied to princes, dukes and earls. Thus, Ethelstan, Duke of the East Anglians, was called Alderman of all England. Afterwards the word became of still more general signification, and was applied to magistrates and others in authority. At present, by "alderman," we understand an officer of a town corporate, next in rank to the mayor or chief officer.

The word "mayor" is of French origin. It is the same as "maire" in French, the chief officer of a town corporate. By some it is supposed that "maire" is derived from "maitre," the master or head man of the town.

Perhaps we had better here explain the origin and meaning of the few remaining terms applied to municipal officers. As head of a town or city council is called the mayor, so the head of a county or rural constituency (to be hereafter described) is called the warden or keeper, for such is the well understood meaning of the word. The head of a township constituency is called the reeve. This word, until restored in modern municipal nomenclature, was obsolete, except in compounds. We find it in sheriff (shire-reeve) and other compound words of that kind. It signifies, like warden, simply a keeper. The sheriff is the keeper of the shire, and so the head of a township council is, par excellence, the reeve or keeper of the council.

Having made this digression to explain the terms which, during the remainder of this paper, we intend to use without explanation, we shall now proceed.

The great variety of charters extant in England, and the confusion arising out of them, induced the English Legislature, in 1835, to attempt consolidation, so as to produce uniformity. This was effected by the Imperial statute 5 & 6 Wm. IV. cap. 76. Before that act, all was chaos. There was scarce a power or privilege in common to the cities, towns and boroughs of England. One town had exclusive privileges of trade; another had exclusive privileges of fishing. One class of persons was entitled to vote in one borough, and in another borough the same class was expressly disqualified. Nothing was in common; everything was in confusion. The materials were at hand, but in such a mass of confusion that the system (or rather want of system) then prevailing was anything but national.

Order was effected by the act to which we have referred. (5 & 6 Wm. IV. cap. 76.) It laid down a general form of municipal government, which was made applicable to all municipal constituencies, and then repealed so much of all laws, statutes and usages, and so much of all royal and other charters, grants and letters patent, as were inconsistent with or contrary to that form. It declared that from the time of the passing of the act, no person should be elected, made or admitted a Burgess or freeman of any borough by gift or purchase, and made provision for those who were then so. It enacted a new qualification for freemen or voters, which qualification was made of general application, and dependent rather on property than on personal influence. It also declared a new qualification for the elected, which was in like manner made of general application. It provided that the days of election and the periods of office should be the same throughout the kingdom. It abolished all exclusive rights of trading, and in this respect placed all municipalities on the same footing. It likewise abolished certain privileges created by particular charters, such as exemption from service as jurors. The remedy was sweeping and effective, and has proved to be lasting. It was the progenitor of the Canadian municipal system, and therefore deserves more than a passing notice from us.

The persons affected by the act were of two classes, the electors and the elected—the governed and the governors. The qualifications as well as the rights of each were fixed and determined. A mode of registering voters was adopted; and whenever a voter tendered himself, the only question that could be raised was the one of identity. The persons elected were termed councillors, and, as regards each locality for which elected, were created a corporation, under the name of "the mayor, aldermen and burgesses" of the borough, as the case might be. The corporation, which was undying, was made to act through its council or body of councillors, which changed each year. Provision was made that one-third of each council should go out of office yearly, and by this procedure the council was yearly changed, though the corporation was always the same. In the event of a vacancy within the year, and before the day of general election, it was provided that the electors should, on a day to be fixed by the mayor of the borough, meet and elect, from among the number of persons qualified to be chosen, a person to supply the vacancy.

The members of the council yearly elected, from among themselves, a mayor or head officer; and no mayor or other member of the council was entitled to act as such, until he took a certain declaration of office, prescribed by the act. Acceptance of office was obligatory. A fine was imposed for failure of acceptance, and every necessary provision made to secure the service in office of duly qualified persons. This was nothing more than the old law of "lots," to which we have already made allusion. It was, however, also provided, that if any person holding the office of mayor, alderman or councillor, should be declared bankrupt, or should apply to take the benefit of any act for the relief of insolvent debtors, or should compound by deed with his creditors, or should absent himself for given periods from the meetings of the council, he should thereby become disqualified, and cease to hold office. The mayor of each council was declared to be a justice of the peace for his borough, and to continue to be a justice during the next succeeding year after he should cease to be mayor, unless disqualified. No minister of religion, and no person having, directly or indirectly, any share or interest in any contract or employment with, by or on behalf of the council, was qualified to be a member of the council. The disqualification, however, was not to extend to any alderman or councillor by reason of his being a proprietor or shareholder of any company having a contract with the council for lighting or supplying with water, or assuring against fire, any part of the borough. By subsequent legislation it was declared that the disqualification was not to extend to any person having a share or interest in any lease, sale or purchase of any lands, or any agreement for any such sale, lease or purchase, or for the loan of money, or in any security for the payment of money only. Still later, the Legislature declared that no person should be deemed to have an interest in a contract or employment with, by or on behalf of the council, by reason of his having a share or interest in any newspaper, in which advertisements relating to the affairs of the borough might be inserted. We are thus specific, in order to explain fully how much the English Legislature desired and endeavored to maintain the purity of the public trust created. Whenever councillors forget that they are trustees for the public—that they are elected for the good of the public, and not for their own personal profit or advantage,—then an axe is laid at the root of municipal government, which, if not in good time removed, must work utter destruction.

The powers of the council were, though extensive, of course subordinate to those of the supreme government. These powers were, to make such by-laws as to the councils should seem meet, for the good rule and government of the borough, and for the prevention and suppression of nuisances, and to appoint fines (limited in amount) for the prevention and suppression of nuisances. Express authority was given for the maintenance, management and control of roads and bridges. County roads and bridges, however, in England, were, and still are, under the control of the justices in quarter sessions of the particular county. To the justices are entrusted general powers as to the assessment and collection of county rates. The municipal system proper has not to this day been extended to the counties of England. To each council of a borough was of course left the appointment of all the subordinate officers of the corporation. It was by the same act provided that all acts to be done by the council of the borough might be done by the majority of the members of the council present at the meeting; the whole number present at the meeting not being less than one third part of the number of the whole council. It was not lawful for any member of the council to vote or take part in the discussion of any matter before the council, in which such member was directly or indirectly peculiarly interested.

Such was the municipal system of England in 1835; such it is to this day. The Canadian system, though the off-spring of that of the mother country, is an improvement upon it, and superior to anything of the kind known in the civilized world. The principles of our system are the same as those of the English system, but the application of them is much more extensive in this colony than in the parent state. While municipal government was in olden times restricted to a few opulent and powerful towns, it is in modern times extended to every city, town and borough in England; and while in England it is as yet restricted to cities, towns and boroughs, it is in Canada extended not only to cities and towns, but to villages, townships and counties, and in fact to every inch of land in the colony.

The municipal system of Canada, like other human institutions, was the growth of time. When the colony was in the hands of the French, municipal laws were administered by the Intendant or colonial governor and council. For many years after the English acquired possession of the colony, the same regime prevailed. Then, the people were few in number and far asunder; there was no such thing as organization. When population increased, the necessity for decentralization forced itself on the attention of the Legislature, and resulted in a very imperfect system of municipal government. Cities and towns, as in England, were from time to time incorporated by special charters; charters here being the acts of the Legislature, in England the acts of the monarch. The charters or acts of incorporation were without uniformity, and so very often opposed to each other. No special provision was made for rural municipalities, such as counties, townships and villages. They were, as in England, under the control of justices of the peace in quarter sessions.

Such was the state of things in Canada until 1841, when the Canadian Legislature passed an act (4 & 5 Vic. cap. 10) to extend the municipal system to districts (now counties) and other rural municipalities. This was a step in advance of the mother country—a step which has not yet been taken by the mother country. Cities, towns and villages were left as before, dependent on their several charters, which were as diverse as local interests and local influences could make them.

By the act of 1841, the inhabitants of each district of Upper Canada were constituted into bodies corporate, and made capable of suing and being sued, and of purchasing and holding lands situate within the limits of the district, for the use of the inhabitants, and of making and entering into such contracts or agreements as might be necessary for the exercise of their corporate functions. The council of each district was made to consist of councillors chosen by the inhabitants of the several townships within the district,—each township having more than three hundred inhabitants, freeholders and householders, being entitled to choose two councillors. The warden or head of the council was appointed by the Governor of the Province. Both electors and the elected had fixed qualifications imposed, the qualification being a property one. No person in holy orders, no minister or teacher of any religious sect or denomination, no judge of any court of civil jurisdiction, no military, naval or marine officer in her Majesty's service, no person accountable for district revenues, and no person receiving any pecuniary allowance from the district for his services, no contractor with the district, was eligible to be elected a councillor. Persons duly qualified and elected to serve, were liable to be fined if they refused to do so. One third part of the entire number of councillors went out of office each year. All meetings of the council were open to the public. Questions in council were determined by the majority of councillors present, the warden having the casting vote. Each council had power to pass by-laws for making, maintaining and improving roads, bridges and public buildings. Powers were also given for the establishment and support of schools. General powers were also given for defraying the expenses of the administration of justice, the salaries of district officers, and other minor expenses necessary to municipal organization. The Governor of the Province was invested with authority, by the advice of his council, to dissolve all or any of the district councils of Upper Canada. The act did not in any manner affect any exclusive rights or privileges of the municipal authorities of any city or town incorporated by act of Parliament. It applied only to district or rural municipalities, leaving cities and towns to be governed under the provisions of their several acts of incorporation.

Though much good was effected by this act, much remained to be done. The division of the Province into districts, owing to their great size, was inconvenient. Townships and villages within districts were for all purposes parts of such districts, instead of having distinct municipal organizations. Districts had nothing in common with cities and towns, and the cities and towns had nothing in common among themselves. No provision was made for the advancement of municipalities in the scale of municipal government. The materials, as in England before 1835, were at hand, and required only some master measure to reduce them to order—to create a system.

So things remained until 1849. In this year, much was done that the experience of former years proved to be necessary. The division of the Province into districts was abolished. Counties or lesser divisions were substituted. Townships and villages were incorporated. One general law was made for cities, towns and incorporated villages, and all special acts of incorporation were repealed. These provisions were from year to year amended, until 1858, when all the amendments were consolidated, and one general and comprehensive measure enacted.

We now propose to explain the present municipal system. Its growth we have seen. Its provisions are numerous, but well arranged. The great feature of the system is the incorporation of municipal bodies. Each county, city, town, township and village is incorporated, and each has its council, which changes year by year. The powers of each are well defined, and the proper exercise of them is subject to the review of the superior courts of common law. Provision is made for the advancement of villages into towns, and of towns into cities, according to population. So soon as a village contains three thousand inhabitants, it may be erected into a town; and so, when a town contains 10,000 inhabitants it may be erected into a city. Towns, townships and cities may, for the convenience of elections, be divided into wards, each ward electing one or more councillors or representatives in the governing body. Cities are for most purposes deemed counties, that is, of co-ordinate jurisdiction. Towns and villages are, in general, like townships, for some purposes, subject to the jurisdiction of counties, and entitled to representatives in the council of the county. It is in the power of the council of any town entirely to withdraw itself from the jurisdiction of the county, and to become independent of the county as any city.

In case a town-ship is laid out by the Crown in territory forming no part of an Incorporated county, the Governor may, by proclamation, erect the township, or two or more of such townships lying adjacent to one another, into an incorporated township or union of townships, and annex the same to any Incorporated county. The proclamation is to appoint the returning officer who is to hold, and the place for holding the first election in the township or union of townships. When a junior township of an Incorporated union of townships has one hundred freeholders and householders, it may become separated from the union of townships. Provision is made for the separate incorporation of townships having a less number of inhabitants than one hundred, where one township is so situate with reference to streams or other natural obstructions, that its inhabitants cannot conveniently be united with the inhabitants of an adjoining township for municipal purposes. The Governor-General may also annex gores of land not forming part of an Incorporated township, to any township or townships to which they are adjacent.

So the Governor-General may, by proclamation, form into a new county any new townships not within the limits of an incorporated county, and may annex the new county to any adjacent incorporated county, or, under certain circumstances, erect the new county into an independent incorporated county. In every union of counties, the county in which the county court-house and gaol are situate, is the senior county, and the other counties of the union are the junior counties. During the union of counties, in general, all laws applicable to counties apply to the union, as if they formed but one county. When the census returns show that a junior county of a union contains not less than fifteen thousand inhabitants, after certain preliminaries, the Governor, if he deem the circumstances of the junior county such as to call for a separate establishment of courts and other county institutions, may, by proclamation setting forth those facts, constitute the representatives in the county council of the villages and townships within the county into a provisional council, and in the proclamation appoint a time and place for the first meeting, and name one of its members to preside at the meeting, and also therein determine the place for and the name of the county town. The member thus appointed presiding officer is to preside until a provisional warden has been elected by the council from among its members. The provisional council may not only appoint a provisional warden, but a provisional treasurer and other provisional officers. It may also acquire the necessary property at the county town of the junior county, on which to erect court-house and gaol, and erect the same. After the provisional council has procured the necessary property, and erected thereon the proper buildings for a court-house and gaol, the council may enter into an agreement with the senior or remaining county or counties for payment of its just proportion of the debts of the union. In case the councils do not agree as to the amount or periods of payment, the matter is to be settled by arbitration. When these things are done, it is for the Governor-General to appoint for the junior county a judge, a surrogate, a sheriff, one or more coroners, a clerk of the peace, a registrar of titles, and at least twelve justices of the peace. After the appointments are made, the Governor-General may, by proclamation, separate the junior county from the senior or remaining counties. The separation is to take effect on a day to be named in the proclamation. On that day the courts and officers of the union cease to have any jurisdiction in the junior county, and the property of the corporation of the union situate in the junior county becomes the property of the corporation of the junior county. When the junior county is legally and formally separated, the head and members of the provisional council become absolutely head and members of the junior county. So all by-laws, contracts, property, assets and liabilities of the provisional corporation, become the by-laws, &c., of the new corporation.

The powers of municipal incorporated bodies may be exercised by by-law or resolution. A by-law requires certain formalities, which a resolution does not. One is in many respects less formal than the other, and in some cases one must be used when the other cannot be used. When a junior county or township is separated from a senior county or township, the by-laws of the union continue in force in the several counties or townships which composed the union, until altered or repealed by the new councils. The same consequences, as to property, follow the dissolution of a union of townships, as already explained with regard to a dissolution of union of townships. Each county or township remains subject to the debts and liabilities of the union, notwithstanding the separation.

The head of every county and provisional corporation is designated the warden; so the head of every city and town, the mayor; so the head of every township and village, the reeve. If the township or village has five hundred resident freeholders and householders, then one other councillor is designated the deputy reeve. The council of every city consists of the mayor, who is the head thereof, and of two aldermen and two councilmen for every ward. The council of every town consists of the mayor, who is the head thereof, and of three councillors for every ward; and if the town is not withdrawn from the jurisdiction of the council of the county in which it lies, one of the councillors is elected by the council to be reeve of the town, or its representative in the county council. The council of every incorporated village consists of five councillors, one of whom is chosen as reeve or the representative of the village in the county council; and if the village has five hundred resident freeholders and householders, then one other of the councillors is chosen deputy reeve or second representative of the village in the county council. The council of every township consists of five councillors, one of which is chosen reeve or representative in the county council. When the population of a township is five hundred resident freeholders and householders, the township is entitled to a deputy reeve or second county representative, in the same manner as incorporated villages. The council of every county consists of the reeves and deputy reeves of the townships, towns and villages within the county. One of the reeves or deputy reeves is annually chosen by the council to be its warden or head. His appointment is no longer, as formerly, in the gift of the Government. No reeve or deputy reeve is entitled to take his seat in the county council until he files with the clerk of the county council a certificate, under the hand and seal of the local municipal clerk, that such reeve or deputy reeve was duly elected, and made and subscribed the necessary declarations of office and of qualification. In the case of a deputy reeve, a further certificate is required, to the effect that the local municipality has the requisite population to entitle it to a deputy reeve or second representative in the county council. Some villages are not incorporated, and these are not entitled to any representative in the county council. They are usually called police villages, and are governed by three trustees, chosen by the people, one of whom is chosen inspecting trustee or head of the council. The reeves and deputy reeves of the different local municipalities within a junior county, are ex officio members of the provisional council.

The persons qualified to be elected mayors, members of a council, or police trustees, are such residents of the county within which the municipality or police village is situate, as are not disqualified by the act, and have, at the time of the election, in their own right or in right of their wives, as proprietors or tenants, freehold or leasehold property, rated in their own names on the last revised roll of the municipality or police village, to at least the value following:

In townships—Freehold to $400, or leasehold to $500.

In police villages—Freehold or leasehold to $400.

In incorporated villages—Freehold to $40 per annum, or leasehold to $80 per annum.

In towns—Freehold to $50 per annum, or leasehold to $100 per annum.

In cities—for aldermen—Freehold to $160 per annum, or leasehold to $320 per annum; and for councilmen, one-half of the qualification required for aldermen.

And so, in the same proportions, in all municipalities and police villages, in case the property is partly freehold and partly leasehold.

No judge of any court of civil jurisdiction, no gaoler or keeper of a house of correction, no officer of any municipality, no bailiff of a division court, no sheriff's officer, no innkeeper or saloonkeeper, no person receiving any allowance from the corporation (except as mayor, warden, reeve, deputy reeve or township councillor), and no person having by himself or his partner any interest in any contract with or on behalf of the corporation, is qualified to be a member of the council of the corporation.

All persons over sixty years of age, all members and officers of the Legislative Council and Legislative Assembly, all persons in the civil service of the Crown, all judges not above disqualified, all sheriffs and coroners, all persons in priest's orders, clergymen and ministers of the gospel of every denomination, all members of the Law Society of Upper Canada, whether barristers or students, all attorneys and solicitors in actual practice, all officers of courts of justice, all members of the medical profession, whether physicians or surgeons, all professors, masters, teachers and other members of any university, college or school in Upper Canada, and all officers and servants thereof, all millers, and all firemen belonging to any authorized fire company, are exempt from being elected or appointed councillors, or to any other corporate office.

The electors of every municipality for which there is an assessment roll, and the electors of every police village, are the male freeholders, and such householders as have been residents for one month next before the election; who are natural-born or naturalized subjects of her Majesty, and who were severally rated on the last revised assessment roll for real property, held in their own right or that of their wives, as proprietors or tenants, for certain fixed sums. In cities, the real property, whether freehold or leasehold, or partly such, must be rated at the annual value of thirty dollars; in towns at twenty dollars, and in incorporated villages at twelve dollars. When a municipality is divided into wards or electoral divisions, no elector is to vote in more than one ward or electoral division. If entitled to vote in the ward in which he resides, he is not entitled to vote in any other ward or electoral division. When real property is owned or occupied jointly by two or more persons, and is rated at an amount sufficient, it equally divided between them, to give a qualification to each, then each is deemed rated within the act, otherwise none of them is deemed rated.

The elections are held annually, and generally in the beginning of the year. The term of office is in all cases one year. Mayors of cities and towns are chosen by the electors generally, instead of, as formerly, by their respective councils. Strict regulations are made for the conduct of all elections; and if contravened, a remedy is given by application to the courts for a new election. We cannot, in this paper, enter into the details of holding an election. In case, at any annual or other election, the electors neglect or decline to elect the members of a council for a municipality on the day appointed, or to elect the requisite number of members, the other members of the council, or, if there are none, then the members of the preceding year, or the majority of them, appoint as many qualified persons as necessary to constitute or complete the number requisite.

In case the right of any municipality to a reeve or deputy reeve, or in case the validity of the election or appointment of a mayor, warden, reeve, deputy reeve, alderman, councillor, councillor or police trustee, is contested, the same may be tried by a judge of either of the superior courts of common law, or the senior or officiating judge of the county court of the county in which the election or appointment took place. When the right of a municipality to a reeve or deputy reeve is the matter contested, any municipal elector in the county may be the relator; and when the contest is respecting the validity of any election or appointment, any candidate at the election, or any elector who gave or tendered his vote at the election, may be relator for the purpose. The application must be made within a limited time, and in the form prescribed by the statute. The decision of the judge is final.

Every qualified person duly elected or appointed to be a mayor, alderman, councillor, reeve, or deputy reeve, councillor, police trustee, assessor or collector of a municipality, who refuses the office within twenty days after his knowing of his election or appointment, is, on conviction before two or more justices of the peace, liable to forfeit not more than eighty dollars, nor less than eight dollars, at the discretion of the justices. The money forfeited is to be for the use of the municipality.

The jurisdiction of every council is confined to the municipality the council represents, except where a more extensive authority is expressly given. The powers of every council are as already mentioned exercised by by-law, when not otherwise ordered or provided for. Every council may make regulations not specifically provided for by the act, and not contrary to law, for governing the proceedings of the council, the conduct of its members, and the appointing or calling of special meetings of the council, and in general such other regulations as the good of the inhabitants of the municipality requires. Every by-law is required to be under the seal and signed by the head of the corporation, or by the person presiding at the meeting at which the by-law was passed, and by the clerk of the corporation. Certain other formalities are requisite to the passing of every by-law; and in order to secure the validity of by-laws to raise money, the assent of the electors is requisite.

In case a resident of a municipality, or any other person interested in a by-law, order or resolution of a council, applies to either of the superior courts of common law, and produces to the court a copy of the by-law, order or resolution, certified under the hand of the clerk, and under the corporate seal, and show by affidavit that it was received from the clerk, and that the applicant is resident or interested as above, the court, after at least eight days' service on the corporation of a rule to show cause, may quash the by-law, order or resolution, in whole or in part, for illegality. Particular by-laws require to be promulgated for a particular time; and if so promulgated, no application to quash them will be entertained after the lapse of six calendar months from promulgation. In case a by-law, order or resolution is illegal, in whole or in part, and in case anything has been done under it which, by reason of the illegality, gives any person a right of action, no such action can be brought until one calendar month has elapsed after the by-law, order or resolution has been quashed or repealed, nor until one calendar month's notice in writing of the intention to bring the action has been given to the corporation; and every such action must be brought against the corporation alone, and not against any one acting under the by-law, order or resolution. The corporation is authorized to tender amends to plead the tender to the action. A summary remedy is given for the punishment of offences against by-laws.

No council is to act as bankers, or issue any bond, bill, note, debenture or other undertaking of any kind, or any form in the nature of a bank bill or note, or intended to form a circulating medium, or to supply the place of specie or pass as money; nor, unless specially authorized, can any council make or give any bond, bill, note, debenture or other undertaking, for the payment of a less amount than one hundred dollars. But express authority is given to issue debentures, in sums of not less than one hundred dollars each for the purpose of raising money under a valid by-law passed for the purpose. All debentures must be sealed with the seal of the corporation, and signed by the head thereof or by some other person authorized by by-law to sign the same. These debentures, payable to bearer, or to any person named therein as bearer, may be transferred by delivery. The transfer has the effect of vesting the property of the debenture in the holder, and enables him to maintain an action thereon in his own name. So debentures may be made payable to order, and if endorsed become in like manner negotiable. They are placed much on the same footing as bills, notes and other similar negotiable securities for money.

No council has power to give any person an exclusive right of exercising within the municipality any trade or calling, or to impose a special tax on any person exercising the same, or to require a license to be taken for exercising the same, unless authorized or required by statute so to do; but the council may direct a fee not exceeding one dollar to be paid to the proper officer for a certificate of compliance with any regulations in regard to the trade or calling. An exception is created in respect to ferries, the exclusive privileges in which may be granted by the corporation.

Subject to certain exceptions, every municipal council has jurisdiction over the original allowances for roads, highways and bridges within the municipality.

Here ends our sketch of the Municipal System of Upper Canada. Compared with the older systems out of which it grew, the improvements are marked. It is more extensive, more efficacious, and in all respects more beneficial than any municipal system in the world. It contains the seeds of self-government, and the fruit is the general prosperity of the country. The system is admirably adapted to the wants of a new country. It expands as population increases, and is found equal to any emergency that may arise in the course of onward improvement. It follows closely upon the footsteps of the pioneer; and as forests disappear before his axe, it enables him to make good roads, good drainage, and other good and necessary public improvements. The system has been of late extended to Lower Canada, and, so far as we can judge, is likely to work beneficially in that section of the Province.

The College year commences with the Autumn Term.

The Autumn Term begins September 8; Winter do., Nov. 20; Spring do., Feb. 15; Summer do., May 1. Reports of the progress and conduct of the pupils are sent to parents at the end of each Term. Deducting the Vacations the Terms are ten weeks each. The Tuition Fee is $10 for one Pupil $9 each for two (Brothers), $8 each for three (Brothers), $7 each for four (Brothers); and the Fee for Boarders, inclusive of Tuition, is $45 per Term. The many improvements made in the arrangement of the College Boarding House have been found to add very materially to the comfort of the boarders. A large paved Ball Court and a Gymnasium, fitted up with the most approved modern appliances and a spacious play-ground and cricket ground afford ample facilities for out-door exercise and amusement within the College bounds. The Boarding House is conducted strictly as an integral part of the Institution. Its disbursements paid out of, and its returns paid into, the general funds. Prizes of books and certificates of honor are given every year to those who distinguish themselves in any of the subjects taught in the College. His Excellency the Governor General offers annually a valuable Prize of Books for the best examination in the higher departments of Classics and Mathematics. At the Annual Public Examination in July Exhibitions are competed for, varying in value from $100 to $20 per annum. Competition for them all is open to the Grammar Schools of the whole Province. More than two thousand of the youth of the Province have received their education, in whole or in part, in Upper Canada Colleges. It numbers now about 300 pupils. The Principal, the First, Second, and Third Classical Masters, and the Mathematical Master, were all of them pupils of the Institution; as were likewise the greater portion of the Medal-men, Scholars, and Honor men of our Universities.

IMPORTANT TO THE CANADIANS.

Dr. RADWAY warns the people of Canada against spurious imitations of his celebrated READY RELIEF. The wonderful success achieved by Radway's Ready Relief, in curing the sick and affording immediate ease and comfort to the pain-suffering and bed-ridden cripple, have induced certain worthless vagabonds to bottle up cheap and deleterious mixtures under the name of READY RELIEF, copying the style of bottles and outside labels. A noted patent medicine impostor and pedler at Hamilton, not only calls his miserable mixtures Ready Relief, but has feloniously stolen our copyrighted directions and printed certificates, changing the address of the letters of our numerous friends from our name to that of his own dishonored cognomen. We caution the people against purchasing the poisons of these modern Borgias—they sell poisonous imitations for money. Touch not any medicine called Ready Relief unless the fac simile signature of Radway & Co. is upon the outside label of each bottle, and the letters Radway & Co. blown in the glass.

RADWAY'S READY RELIEF.

The Minute Medicine.

RADWAY'S READY RELIEF is truly a Minute Medicine for it will cure in minutes diseases that other remedies require hours and days to effect; and will relieve the agonistic pain of acute and inflammatory diseases in seconds, when all other remedies fail altogether.

RADWAY'S READY RELIEF should be kept in the house as arms are kept for self defence, or a fire-escape for safety from a sudden conflagration. Hundreds die from sudden attacks of disease that one dose of it would save. Persons subject to Fits, Cramps, Spasms, Bilious Colics, &c., should be able to reach it the instant they are seized. Taken during the first ague chill it may prevent a second. It is the great antidote to pain, whether arising from external or internal injury, or from a sudden malady. Fevers, originating in sudden changes of temperature or unwholesome vapors, are repelled before they have obtained a hold upon the system by its hygeian operation.

Croup.

JOHN HOGG, EDITOR, COLLINGWOOD, C.W., testifies:

"A child of mine, eight weeks old, was seized with Croup of the worst form. The best medical practitioners of the town were called in, but after doing everything in their power to relieve her—but all in vain—GAVE HER UP AS DEAD. I then took her in hand, rubbed her back, chest and throat with Radway's Ready Relief, and gave large doses of Syrup of Squills, when in the course of a few hours she was well again, and is now as well and hearty a child as can be."

Rheumatism—Lumbago.

JOHN MCWHINNIE, Esq., EDITOR, WOODSTOCK, C.W., testifies:

"From a recent trial of Radway's Ready Relief, for Rheumatism, I am satisfied it is a sovereign remedy. Four weeks since I was seized with Lumbago—was quite unable to stand up. I applied Radway's Ready Relief, and found immediate relief. I sometimes suffer great pain in my joints, knees and ankles. One application of Radway's Ready Relief to the painful parts, and the pain vanishes."

RADWAY'S REGULATING PILLS,

The purest & best Purgative Medicine in the World.

In the recent cases of Bilious Colic, Inflammation of the Bowels, and in all violent attacks, will produce a healthy evacuation from the bowels in six hours.

RADWAY'S REGULATING PILLS are the only family Cathartic that purges without depletion, without inducing after constipation and compelling a perpetual resort to the medicine. They operate more rapidly than any drastic mineral purgative, never occasion tenesmus, and influence simultaneously the stomach, the bowels, the liver and the circulation. No form of indigestion, biliousness, or intestinal disease can withstand its alterative and corrective operation.

Radway's Regulating Pills are the purest and best purgative medicine known to medical science. While they purge from the system all diseased and corrupt humors, they impart nourishment, vitality, and quiet to the suffering and exhausted body.

Persons troubled with restlessness, bad dreams and ringing noises in the head one or two of Radway's Pills will ensure health and refreshing sleep.

Rheumatism in the Shoulders.

GEORGE MCKENDLY, TRAFALGAR TP. HALTON CO., C.W. I was afflicted for eighteen weeks with Rheumatism in both shoulders, so that I could neither walk nor raise my hand to my head. I procured, as a last resort, a bottle of Radway's Ready Relief, which so relieved me in three days' time, that I could walk with ease. I am now in the enjoyment of good health as ever, which any person in Halton Co. can truly testify to."

RADWAY'S RENOVATING RESOLVENT.

PURE AND HEALTHY BLOOD.

RADWAY'S RENOVATING RESOLVENT, Is the most positive and thorough cleansing and renovating medicine known to medical science. It purifies with astonishing speed impure and diseased blood, and resolves away all disease deposits, whether in the blood, bones, joints, tissues, &c.

Skin Diseases.

TO THOSE WHO REQUIRE PROOF.

Swelling of the Glands, Sore Eyes, Sore Throat, very dangerous Cough cured by Radway's Ready Relief.

JACKSONVILLE, Florida April 28, 1860.

Dr. RADWAY.—Dear Sir: I was afflicted with the swelling of the Glands, so much so that I could hardly eat my meals. I bought a bottle of Radway's Ready Relief, and bathed my throat with it. In Twenty Hours the swelling was entirely gone and my throat cured. At the same time I had very sore eyes, and after I had rubbed with the Ready Relief, some of it remained on my fingers, and in rubbing my eyes some of the Relief got in them. My eyes got well immediately. I was likewise troubled with a very dangerous Cough, that resisted all medicines until I used your Ready Relief, a few doses of which cured me.

Respectfully yours, SAMUEL J. ASHTON.

Radway's REMEDIES are sold by all respectable Druggists.

A NATIONAL STANDARD.

A large majority of all the members of the present American Congress, over their own personal signatures have testified that WEBSTER'S is the best English Dictionary. The Congressional debates now conform to Webster.

ENGLISH TESTIMONY:

We have the pleasure of presenting the following very recent and conclusive testimony with regard to the estimation in which the new edition of Webster's Dictionary is held in England, by leading journals, literary men and the book-buying public:—

From the London National Magazine for August, 1860—a prominent and influential journal:—

"A good dictionary, in all doubtful questions, is a final standard of appeal, and undoubtedly now that Johnson is out of date, or rather that philological discovery has set aside much of what that brave old tory wrote—it is clear that the best dictionary of the English language is that which comes to us from the other side of the Atlantic. Of course the reader, the well-educated and literary reader, knows that we refer to the great Dictionary of Webster, a work which like Johnson's was in many respects original; which involved the labor of a life-time; and which both in this country and in America, has acquired extraordinary circulation and influence. A new competitor for public favor has appeared in the shape of a quarto published by Dr. Worcester. The controversy in America is as to the merits of the respective dictionaries. We decide for Webster.

"As to pronunciation, Dr. Worcester gives us so many more sounds than Dr. Webster as to be quite confusing. But, of course, the chief merit of a dictionary consists in its definitions, and here Webster remains unapproached. Dr. Worcester's definitions—many of them—are feeble and incomplete compared with those of Webster. The more we study him the more we are struck with his wonderful power of analysis and erudition. Again in synonyms the later editions of Webster, revised by Goodrich, have an immense superiority over those of Worcester. We do not find the latter has added materially to our stock of knowledge. Most of the words he adds are such as never were much used by standard writers, such as long have gone out of use. Thus he gives us perfectionate, used in the sense of to perfect, and its present participle perfectionating words used by Dryden, but which never were regarded as good words and never gained currency.

"Again, Worcester has loaded his dictionary with scientific and technical terms, assuredly of little account. Such words as acanthæ, accentorina, apterigina, bucenotina, buteonemol, cacaturinal, campyrophagina, erophagina, furnarine, gullarine, indicatorina, and others out of place in a general dictionary. If we pass on to the pictorial illustrations of the respective dictionaries, we feel inclined to give our verdict in favor of Webster. This feature, when properly executed is of great importance. A good cut or diagram will often give a better definition of a term than a page of letter press. In Worcester these illustrations are scattered through the body of the work, and are necessarily quite small, often being nothing more than the head of a bird. In Webster they are printed and bound up in a compact body, by themselves, accompanied by full illustrative and explanatory notes, while the body of the work contains references to them under the appropriate words. The illustrations in Webster number about 1500, while Worcester has less than 1000. Webster also has the advantage of classification. To our apprehension the cuts in Webster are much more satisfactory, being larger and better printed.

"Worcester's dictionary is the later, and with some the last book is always the best. It is, however, our calm conviction that Webster will retain his place in the libraries of the mechanic, the gentleman, and the scholar."

From B. H. Smart.

B. H. SMART, the well-known English Elocutionist and Lexicographer, under date of London, Aug. 7, 1860, writes:—"I have examined as far as time has permitted the splendid volume you did me the honor to transmit last week—The Pictorial edition of Webster's Dictionary, unabridged, 1859. Take it all together, it must be considered, in America, at least, as the surpassing work of its kind. I say in America, because Webster's name no doubt there carries an authority with it which our English public are not willing to yield when difference of opinion or practice exists—e. g., in the spelling of honour, favour, etc. I must at the same time acknowledge there a great consistency in Webster's practice, and that if it could be enforced here, as I understand it is in America, by the greater force of his name, our common language would be liberated from many of its inconsistencies."

From H. Coleridge, Esq.

The able Secretary of the London Philological Society, London, Aug. 7, 1860:—

"As a general book of reference, adapted to the wants of that enormous majority of educated persons who are not linguistic scholars, it would, I think, be difficult to frame a better or more serviceable Dictionary than that of Webster in its later editions. I have often been struck by the copiousness of the vocabulary, and the immense variety of the isolated facts brought together. I think the book, when viewed as it should be, as a hand-book of the language easy of consultation for the masses, fulfils its object most thoroughly."

Webster's School Dictionaries, viz.

THE PRIMARY, COMMON SCHOOL, HIGH SCHOOL, ACADEMIC, COUNTING HOUSE and UNIVERSITY.

These popular School Dictionaries, having been thoroughly revised within the last three or four years, being extensively regarded as the Standard authority in Orthography, Definition, and Pronunciation, and as THE BEST Dictionaries in use, are respectfully commended to teachers and others. They are much more extensively sold and used than all others combined.

DEAR SIRS,—I have, as requested, to-day visited the Royal Laundry, with reference to the Advertisement of the Nottingham firm, who state that their Starch has been used for many years in the Royal Laundry, and have been assured by Mr. Thompson, the Superintendent, that none but yourselves have any right to state that they supply Starch to Her Majesty's Laundry, as no other Starch is there used, nor has been used for some years, but the Glenfield Patent Starch.

I have been further assured that your Starch continues to give complete satisfaction, and that though trial has been made of samples of various Starches, none of these have been found nearly equal in quality to the Glenfield.

WORCESTER'S DICTIONARY is an established favorite with us. For exact definitions, full and complete lists of technical and scientific terms, and words of modern introduction, I do not know its equal. I never consult it without obtaining satisfaction.

ALPHEUS TODD,

Librarian Legislative Assembly, Quebec.

WORCESTER'S ILLUSTRATED QUARTO, as a surpassing monument of literary labor and skill, and a splendid triumph of typographical art, needs but to be known in order to its being procured and habitually consulted.

JAMES PORTER,

Local Sup't of Public Schools, Toronto.

I have examined it as carefully as the short time it has been in my hands has permitted, and consider it to be superior in comprehensiveness, general utility, and in accuracy of detail, to any other English Dictionary with which I am acquainted.

REV. W. STENNETT, M.A.,

OPINIONS IN ENGLAND.

The lapse of a few months will be sufficient to establish WORCESTER'S DICTIONARY as the acknowledged standard of reference among the scholars of England and America.—London Literary Gazette, Feb. 11, 1860.

Commendatory Letters have been received from the following eminent English philologists, namely: CHARLES RICHARDSON, the venerable author of Richardson's Dictionary; HERBERT COLERIDGE, Sec'y Philological Society; RICHARD C. TRENCH, R. G. LATHAM, B. H. SMART, and also from REV. DR. BOSWORTH, Prof. Anglo-Saxon at Oxford University, who says:

"In short, it is the most complete and practical, the very best as well as the cheapest English Dictionary that I know, and I have, therefore, no doubt of its success."

Prof. W. WHEWELL, D.D., Master Trinity College, Cambridge, England, says:

"The Dictionary is more complete and exact than any of its predecessors."

H. R. H. PRINCE ALBERT, in an autograph letter addressed to the Hon. EDWARD EVERETT, dated Buckingham Palace, May 9, 1860, writes:

My dear Mr. Everett,—I have to acknowledge the receipt of the very handsome copy of Dr. Worcester's Dictionary, which you have been good enough to send me; and I must beg of you also to assure the publishers that I am very sensible of the kind feeling which they manifested toward me. It is very gratifying to see that the parent language receives such valuable aid for its development and the preservation of its purity in your country.

FROM CHARLES DICKENS.

"It is a most remarkable work, of which America will be justly proud, and for which all who study the English language will long have reason to respect your name and to be grateful to you."

"From careful and impartial examination we believe that a cheaper and more generally useful volume could not be placed on any reader's desk or student's shelf."—Birmingham Journal.

Explanation of the Articles of the Calendar.

These pages are calculated for Toronto and Quebec, and for ordinary purposes will serve with sufficient accuracy for every city in Canada.

MOON'S PHASES.—This Table gives the times for the two meridians when the moon passes the geocentric longitudes of 0°, 90°, 180° and 270° east of the sun. It gives also the times of her greatest and least distance from the earth.

TWILIGHT.—In this table are given the times at which twilight begins in the morning and ends in the evening, i. e., the times when the sun's centre is 18° below the horizon.

GREATEST ELONGATION OF THE POLE STAR.—This column gives the greatest azimuth of the Pole Star east or west from the meridian as observed at a place in latitude 45°. When the greatest elongation corresponding to any other latitude is required, the number given in the column should be corrected by means of the following table.

Degrees of Latitude.....	42°	43°	44°	45°	46°	47°	48°	49°	50°
1st Correction for Degrees.....	-5' 58"	-4' 5"	-2' 5"	0' 0"	+2' 12"	+4' 32"	+6' 59"	+9' 34"	+12' 18"
2nd Correction for each minute of latitude.....	+ 1.9"	+ 2.0"	+ 2.1"	+ 2.2"	+ 2.3"	+ 2.5"	+ 2.6"	+ 2.7"

The 1st correction for the degrees of latitude is to be subtracted from the greatest elongation given in the calendar, or added to it, according as the degrees of latitude are less or greater than 45°.

The 2nd correction, which is always additive, is found by multiplying the number given in the third line of the table by the number of minutes in the latitude.

Thus for latitude 43° 20'... 1st correction = -4' 5"      2nd correction + 2.0 × 20 = + 40"

" " 47° 40'... " + 4' 32"      " + 2.5 × 40 = 1' 40"

" " 45° 10'... " + 0' 0"      " + 2.2 × 10 = 0' 22"

THE PLANETS.—The times of rising and setting of the five chief planets are calculated for Toronto, and are corrected for refraction. The times of culmination, although computed for the meridian of Toronto, will serve approximately for the whole of Canada. The meridian zenith distances, being designed merely to aid in finding the planets, have been given only to the nearest tenth of a degree, as seen from the latitude of Toronto.

When the planetary day is shorter than the mean solar day, and commences soon after the midnight of the preceding day, the planet will sometimes arrive a second time on the meridian before the expiration of the actual civil day. From analogous causes a planet will sometimes rise twice or set twice in the same civil day. When two culminations occur in the same day, or two risings or settings, the times of both are registered.

The times of the SUN'S RISING AND SETTING are given for the upper limb, and are corrected for refraction both for Toronto and Quebec.

The MOON'S RISING is given from full to change, and her setting from change to full.

The MOON'S MERIDIAN ZENITH DISTANCES are given to the nearest tenth of a degree for Toronto. They are not corrected for parallax or refraction.

The column SUN ON MERIDIAN gives the time that a watch should shew when the shadow of a sun dial is on the noon mark.

DECLINATION OF THE SUN AT APPARENT NOON.—This column gives the sun's declination at the instant he passes the meridian of Toronto.

MOON'S AGE.—This column shews to the nearest tenth of a day the Moon's age at Toronto Noon.

The column, SUN ON THE MERIDIAN, gives the mean time at which the moon's centre passes the meridian of Toronto.

The column, UPPER TRANSIT OF POLE STAR shews for every day the mean time at which the Pole Star makes its upper transit across the meridian of Toronto. It passes in the morning from April 9th to October 8th, and in the evening for the rest of the year.

The five last columns, although computed for Toronto, will serve with sufficient accuracy for the whole of Canada.

The time at which the lower transit of the Pole Star occurs may be found by adding 11 h. 58 m. 2 s. to the time of its preceding upper transit.

From the time of the upper transit of the polestar may be found the time of its greatest western or eastern elongation, by adding or subtracting the constants given in the annexed Table.

Latitude .....	42°	43°	44°	45°	46°	47°	48°	49°	50°
Constant.....	h m s 5 53 49	h m s 5 53 38	h m s 5 53 26	h m s 5 53 14	h m s 5 53 2	h m s 5 52 49	h m s 5 52 36	h m s 5 52 22	h m s 5 52 8

From the times of the upper transit of the Pole Star may be derived, with the aid of the following table, the times of culmination; and of the rising and setting of the principal fixed stars that appear above the horizon of Toronto.

Star Table.

To ascertain when any star found in the following table will be on the meridian, add the number in the left-hand column of figures to the preceding meridian transit of the pole star given in the calendar. To find the time of rising of a star, subtract the number opposite to it in the right-hand column of figures from the time of its meridian passage. For the setting of a Star, add the same number to the time of its meridian passage. Those stars marked (.....) revolve in a circle of perpetual apparition, and do not rise or set at Toronto, or at places to the north of Toronto.

Eclipses.

In the year 1862 there will be three Eclipses of the Sun and two of the Moon.

I.—Total Eclipse of the Moon, June 11, 1862, visible in Canada.	III.—A partial Eclipse of the Sun, November 21, invisible in Canada.
II.—A partial Eclipse of the Sun, June 26, invisible in Canada.	IV.—A total Eclipse of the Moon, Dec. 5, visible in Canada.
	V.—Partial Eclipse of the Sun, Dec. 20, invisible in Canada.

I.—TOTAL ECLIPSE OF THE MOON, JUNE 11.

The first contact with the shadow occurs at 67° from the northernmost point of the Moon's limb towards the East, and the last contact at 70° towards the West; in each case for direct image.

Magnitude of the Eclipse (Moon's diameter = 1) 1.194.

The following table shows the local mean astronomical time for certain stations at which the several phases occur.

PHASES.	Quebec.		Montreal.		Kingston.		Toronto.		London.

Last contact with Shadow .....	15	15	15	5	14	53	14	42	14	34

The last contact with the Penumbra will occur after the Moon has set; and at Quebec the time of last contact with the shadow will coincide very nearly with the time at which the Moon will set.

II.—PARTIAL ECLIPSE OF THE SUN, June 26.

This Eclipse will be visible at the Cape of Good Hope, in the eastern coasts of Australia, and in parts of the intermediate Oceans.

III.—PARTIAL ECLIPSE OF THE SUN, November 21.

This Eclipse is only visible in a small portion of the Southern Ocean, above the parallel of 60°.

IV.—TOTAL ECLIPSE OF THE MOON, December 5.

The first contact with the shadow occurs at 102° from the northernmost point of the Moon's limb towards the east and the last contact 104° towards the west.

Magnitude of the Eclipse (Moon's diameter = 1) 1.409.

The following Table shows the local mean astronomical time, for certain stations, at which the several phases occur.

JANUARY.

The keener tempests rise; and fuming dun
From all the livid East, or piercing North,
Thick clouds ascend; in whose capacious womb
A vapory deluge lies, to snow congeal'd—
Heavy they roll their fleecy world along,
And the sky saddens with the gathering storm.

FEBRUARY.

—How the woods
Bow their hoar head; and o'er the languid Sun
Faint from the West emits his evening ray,
Earth's universal face, deep hid, and chill,
Is one wide dazzling waste, that buries wide
The works of man.

MARCH.

Muttering, the winds at eve, with blunted point,
Blow hollow—blustering from the South. Subdu'd
The frost resolves into a trickling thaw.
Spotted the mountains shine; loose steel descends
And floods the country round. The Rivers swell
Impatient of their bonds.

APRIL.

And see where surly WINTER passes off,
Far to the North, and calls his ruffian blasts:
His blasts obey, and quit the howling bill,
While softer gales succeed, at whose kind touch,
Dissolving snows in livid torrents lost,
The mountains lift their green heads to the skies.

HOLYDAYS, ENGLISH NAVAL VICTORIES.

MAY.

Joyous th' impatient husbandman perceives
Relenting nature, and his lusty Steers
Drives from their stalls, to where the well us'd plough
Lies in the furrow loosened from the frost.
There, unrelenting, to the harness'd yoke
They lend their shoulder, and begin the toil,
Chas'd by the simple song, and soaring lark.

JUNE.

From the moist meadow to the wither'd hill,
Led by the breeze, the vivid verdure runs,
And swells, and deepens, to the cherish'd eye.
The hawthorn whitens; and the juicy groves
Put forth their buds, unfolding by degrees,
Till the whole leafy forest stands display'd
In full luxuriance, to the sighing gales.

Half in a blush of clustering roses lost,

There on the verdant turf, or flowery bed,

On man, and beast, and herb, and tepid stream.

AUGUST.

Soon as the morning trembles o'er the sky
And, unperceived, unfolds the spreading day;
Before the ripen'd fields the reapers stand,
In fair ar —

At once they stoop and swell the lusty sheaves,
While thro' the cheerful land the rural jest
Flies harmless, to deceive the tedious time,
And steal unfelt the sultry hours away.

HOLYDAYS, ENGLISH NAVAL VICTORIES.

SEPTEMBER.

Now Autumn basks; with fruit enpurpled deep;
Presents the downy peach—the shining plum,
The ruddy fragrant nectarine: and dark
Beneath his ample leaf, the luscious fig.
The vine too here her curling tendrils shoots,
Hangs out her clusters, glowing to the south;
And scarcely wishes for a warmer sky.

OCTOBER.

But see the fading many-color'd woods,
Shade deepening over shade, the country round
Inbrow'n: a crowded nubbage, dusk, and dun,
Of every hue, from wan declining green
To sooty dark. These now the lonesome muse,
Low whispering, lead into their leaf-strown walks,
And give the Season in its latest view.

Fled is the blasted verdure of the fields;
And shrunk into their beds, the flowery race

The desolated prospect thrills the soul.

Temperature.—The mean temperature of the year 1860 was 41.92, a number exceeding by 0.20 the average of 21 years. This small excess was due to the mildness generally of the Spring and Autumn, since the means of both the Summer and Winter months were mostly below the average. The average of the differences, without regard to signs of the monthly means from their respective normals, was 1.98 for the year 1860, and 2.42 for the period 1853-60. As far as this can be taken as a test, 1860, in respect to temperature, may be regarded as approximately a normal year.

The range of the year, the mean of the monthly ranges, and the mean of the daily ranges, were respectively 96.5, 45.93, and 14.24; which, compared with 708.91, 48.908, and 16.41, the corresponding numbers for the period 1853-60, indicate a general moderation in the fluctuations of temperature.

The warmest day was July 19, with a mean of 75.90, and the coldest, Dec. 14, when the mean was 1.08. The extremes of temperature for the year (88.0 and -8.5) occurred on July 19 & Feb. 1. The former was 2.4 below, and the latter 3.2 above, the averages of the yearly maxima and minima.

There were 32 days in which the mean of the day differed from the normal by 12° and upwards. Of these none occurred in the summer months, but were distributed through the rest of the year in a tolerably regular progression, their frequency increasing with a decreasing temperature, and reaching a maximum in February. In grouping together the four years terminating with 1860, a well-marked double progression becomes apparent with a second or inferior maximum in June. If regard be had, not to the number of abnormal daily means but to the amount of abnormal variation of each observation, without reference to any arbitrary limit, it will be found that the aggregate of these variations in the several months derived from a series of six years conform to a double progression, similar to that above described, the principal maximum of mean abnormal variation 10.21 occurring in February; the two minima, 5.71 and 4.95, in May and August; and the second maximum, 5.97, in June, the mean for the whole year being 6.97.

Barometer.—The mean height of the barometer for the year differed from the average of the past thirteen years by -.0276 inches, an usually large difference as compared with other years. The mean of the monthly differences from their respective averages, and without regard to sign, was small, being only .0449 inches against .0509 inches, the corresponding number for the period 1855-60.

The extremes of pressure were within narrow limits as regards their amount, and were separated by an interval of only 138 hours, the maximum, 30.267 inches, having occurred on December 14, at 5 P.M., and the minimum, 28.838 inches, on December 20, at 11 A.M.

The days of excessive abnormal variation, in which the mean pressure of the day differed by .200 inches, and upwards, from the normal, were 115, a number somewhat larger than usual. The law of their distribution among the months is not so well marked as in the case of temperature, but their greater frequency in the winter than in the summer months is sufficiently obvious, being 19 and 5 in December and August of 1860, and on the aggregate of four years, 50 in December and 17 in August. If further the aggregate amounts of the abnormal variations of all the observations in each month be compared, a law will be found to prevail in the distribution resembling very closely in its general character that just stated.

Humidity.—The mean humidity of the year was .77, which is rather in excess of that of the preceding year. Its distribution among the several months was more than usually equable.

Clouds.—The extent of sky clouded, in accordance with the experience of former years, amounted to three-fifths of the hemisphere on the average of the year. July and Aug. were the clearest months, and Dec. the most cloudy.

Wind.—The resultant direction of the wind was N. 60 W. (almost identical with that of 1859), and the resultant velocity 3.32 miles. The mean velocity was 8.55 miles, which shows a still further increase on the velocity of the preceding year. The day of greatest wind was March 21, when the velocity averaged 28.83 miles; and the calmest day was February 4, when the mean velocity was only 0.85 miles per hour. The greatest velocity recorded for a whole hour was 40.6 miles, from 8 P.M. to 9 P.M. on Feb. 9.

The most windy hours on the average of the year were from 1 P.M. to 2 P.M., and from 2 P.M. to 3 P.M., with a mean velocity in each case of 11.17 miles; and the calmest hour from 1 A.M. to 2 A.M., when the mean velocity was 6.91 miles.

Rain and Snow.—The depth of rain was 23.434 inches, or nearly 10 inches less than in 1859, a deficiency having occurred in every month but February, July and August. The amount of snow (45.6 inches) was also below the average to the extent of 15.3 inches, and the rain and melted snow combined fell short of the average by 8.589 inches. While the quantity of rain and snow was deficient, the number of days on which rain fell was about 8 per cent., the number of days of snow 2 per cent., and the number of rain or snow about 5 per cent. greater than the average of the past six years.

July was the most rainy month in respect to the amount of rain, and May in respect to its frequency. Even when snow is taken into account and reckoned as rain, July still maintains its predominance in the amount of precipitation, but the max. of frequency is then transferred to Dec.

The heaviest fall of rain was 1.265 inches on December 19, and the heaviest fall of snow 9 inches on February 18.

Thunderstorms.—Of the 31 thunderstorms recorded, the earliest took place on February 22, and the latest on Oct. 15. The storm of August 24 was one of great violence.

Auroras.—Of 58 auroras, the most brilliant occurred on March 26, 27, and September 6 & 15.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

SENEX, TORONTO.—We do not think the great Comet you speak of can be blamed for the changes noticed in the Calendar of our Almanac during the last week in November, 1860 and '61. We attribute it to a more malignant influence, and although we should be sorry to say his Satanic Majesty was the author of the change, yet we cannot help thinking some devil (printer's) may have had a hand in it.

HIGH CHURCHMAN, TORONTO.—All returns to our Almanac are published exactly as received from the authorities to whom application has been made. It would ill become us to alter any manuscript thus sent to our hands, and we trust our correspondent will acquit us of "wifely misleading a great portion of the Canadian Public." His letter has been forwarded to the College the return of which he considers to have been improperly made.

L. YOUNGHUSBAND, M.A., SCOTLAND.—Your suggestion has been referred to the Department affording us the returns indicated, and will doubtless be acted upon.

EZEKIEL S. WIGGINS, LITTLE BRITAIN.—Your problems are received, but in consequence of the slight interest manifested in our Mathematical matter for years 1858 and '9, notwithstanding the liberal prizes we offered for solutions, we have been obliged to drop this Department for the present.

COMET, MONTREAL.—It would be quite impossible for us to give any general calculations or tables in reference to Comets. We may state that the Comet which visited our Earth during the early part of July last past, appears to have been a stranger. Mr. Breen states, "from observations made by Mr. Buckingham and myself I have deduced the following elements of the Comet: Perihelion passage, June 11, 67,595; longitude of perihelion, 249 degrees 15 min. 25 sec.; longitude of ascending node, 278 deg. 59 min. 32.1 sec.; inclination = 85 deg. 35 min. 57.6 sec.; log. least distance = 9.9147624. Motion direct. This proves that it is not the expected comet of Charles V." Mr. Hind expresses his opinion that it is not only possible, but even probable, that in the course of Sunday, June 30, the earth passed through the tail of the comet at a distance of perhaps two-thirds of its length from the nucleus. A few years since M. Babinet expressed his opinion before the French Academy of Sciences that we might pass through the mass of a comet without being aware of it. The length of the tail of this comet was upwards of 80 degrees, and the rate at which it moved through the heavens was over two and a half millions of miles in the twenty-four hours.

RUSTIC, NORWICH.—Apogee ( $\alpha\pi\omicron$ , from, and  $\gamma\eta$ , the earth). That point in the orbit of a planet which is at the greatest distance from the earth. The ancients regarded the earth as fixed in the centre of the system, and therefore assigned to the sun with the planets, an apogee; but the moderns, considering the sun as the centre, use the terms perihelion and aphelion to denote the least and greatest distance of the planets from that orb. The sun's apogee, therefore, is in strictness the earth's aphelion. Apogee is properly applicable to the moon.

Perigee is the reverse of apogee being that point of the moon's orbit which is nearest to the earth; and when the moon has arrived at this point she is said to be in her perigee. Perigee from  $\pi\epsilon\rho\iota$ , about, and  $\gamma\eta$ , the earth.

— Asks why a clock goes slower at the equator than in a higher latitude? It depends on the force of gravity. Greater the force the time of vibration of a pendulum is less, consequently quicker the clock. Now the force of gravity diminishes from the equator to the poles, therefore at the equator a clock will go slower than in a higher lat.

COTTON.

The year now closed promises to mark an important epoch in the history of the COTTON TRADE. In Canada, by an effort to introduce the manufacture of cotton goods as a commercial enterprise, and as the means of employing her surplus urban population. In England, by the efforts of her manufacturers to develop new sources whence they may draw supplies of the raw material. By their determination to occupy a position of comparative independence as to the fluctuations of the cotton crop in the Southern States, whether produced by political or other causes. But especially by the violent disruption of the American Union, brought about by issues that mainly affect the cultivation of the Cotton Plant, and by the imposition of duties for the avowed purpose of protecting the northern manufacturer at the expense of the consumer.

A brief notice of the rise and progress of an interest so intimately connected with and in no small degree influencing such important events in the march of time, may properly occupy a few pages of the CANADIAN ALMANAC.

It is not our purpose to trace the history of Cotton Spinning back to the heroic ages, nor to cite HERODOTUS as witness to the quality of the cotton fabrics of India. Those of our readers who explore classic authors, or who are given to historical research, may read how the cotemporaries of STRABO practiced the art of printing calicoes; and PLINY will describe to them the gossypium* plant, from whose "woolly down was made the beautiful robes which the priests of Egypt delighted to wear." MARCO POLO will tell in quaint phrases what progress the manufacture of cotton goods had made in his day, in the far off Empire of CATHAY; and in the "precepts of Eben el Awan" may be read all that was known to the Arabs of the culture and use of the plant whose products now figure so largely in our commercial statistics.

* Gossypium—Cotton, a genus of plants, of the class Mimalephia, order polyandria, Linn. The American species is termed G. hirsutum, the short-staple, or upland cotton.

Our business shall be with the Cotton Trade of the present generation; to relate in brief terms the steps by which it has grown to its present gigantic proportions—to nearly a third of the commercial enterprise of that great empire whose commerce envelopes the globe.

Among the many wonderful developments of Industrial enterprise, the growth of the Cotton manufacture in BRITAIN is beyond comparison the most remarkable. In the first year of the present century the Cotton goods exported from the United Kingdom were valued at £355,000 sterling. In 1860 their value was declared to be £52,013,482 sterling; and those taken for home consumption were estimated to be worth £40,000,000.

But great as is the contrast between the Cotton exports of the first year of the present century and the value of the Cotton fabrics exported and taken for home consumption in 1860, the figures fail to convey anything like an adequate idea of the wonderful strides that have been made in the productive powers of British industry, skill and enterprise. Valued at the prices obtained prior to 1815, the cotton goods now annually produced in Britain would be worth upwards of four hundred and fifty millions pounds sterling. At the former period, the average value of a yard of manufactured cotton was 17½d., now it is only 3½d.; nor is this all,—the article produced at the latter price is greatly superior in texture, appearance, and in durability, to the more costly fabrics manufactured prior to the inventions of Hargreaves, Compton, Arkwright, and others, to whose ingenuity England is indebted for one of the most important of her commercial interests, and the world for putting within reach of the poorest labourer, luxuries that a century earlier could hardly be obtained by the wealthiest noble.

If such figures inadequately represent the annual productive value of the factories of Great Britain, at what capital sum shall we rate the brain labour of those men who have perfected the machinery wherewith such results have been achieved? If England's commercial supremacy is the chief element of her greatness and glory; if commerce is the best missionary of civilization, certain it is that the inventors of those wonderfully productive agents are entitled to a conspicuous niche among the benefactors of the human race and contributors to their country's greatness.

Having in mind the essential maxim of that excellent matron, Mrs. Glass, we shall grow our cotton before we spin it. To this end—as an acre of land, with the best management, will only yield 100 lbs. of the cleaned wool, we must have annually under crop, to meet the current consumption of Europe and America, not less than 19,000,000 acres; and, to ensure a proper rotation, not less than fifty seven millions of acres of land are required for the production of the 1871 millions of lbs. of cotton wool that feed the spindles of the European and American manufactories. It is probable that an equal quantity is necessary for the Asiatic and African looms, therefore it is fortunate that the "gossypium" is indigenous to so large a portion of the earth's surface, and that it has been found capable of naturalization in latitudes extending thirty-five degrees on each side of the equator. It has been cultivated in Italy, in Sicily, and in the south of France. Egypt and Brazil supply large quantities of a superior quality, and recently it has been cultivated in Australia and at the Cape.

Notwithstanding the wide range over which the cultivation of this plant may be extended, embracing the most important colonies of Britain, it is a singular fact that the attention of British capitalists has not until recently been directed to the promotion of its cultivation, and the vast interests involved in the manufacture of its products have been almost entirely dependent on the American plantations;—so much so that, in 1856, it was boasted by a writer in a New Orleans periodical, that "of the four millions of bales annually consumed, three and a half millions were produced in the Southern States of the Union."

Since, and indeed for some time previous to the "secession" of the Cotton States, the attention of the British manufacturers has been thoroughly aroused to the danger of their position, and it is almost certain that the efforts now being made will stimulate the production of cotton to an extent that will give as wide a range of markets for the purchase of raw material as there now is for the sale of manufactured goods. There is no valid reason why they should stop short of this desirable result, for it has been abundantly demonstrated that labour is most abundant in those countries where the soil and climate is most suitable for the culture of cotton, and only requires the enterprise and organization of the Anglo-Saxon to train it to the work.

The first impulse has been towards India. When the Russian war seriously interfered with the supply of hemp, India supplied its place with "JUTE" and "SUNN." When British forests were found insufficient to supply the dockyards with timber, India gave them "TEAK;" and now, when the folly and presumption of man threatens to interfere with the accustomed supply of cotton, India is looked to for the means to fill the threatened gap. Nor will she fail. In that vast region, embraced by the Indus and the Himalaya Mountains, and bounded by the Indian Ocean and the Bay of Bengal, there exists a population closely approximating upon 200,000,000, fully two-thirds of whom are subjects of the British Crown; these, from a period anterior to historic record, have been clothed in cotton. The total quantity of cotton grown in India, according to Dr. Watson, amounts to upwards of 2,400,000,000 lbs. per annum, and demand for its culture certainly not less than 24,000,000 of acres.

Great as is the acreage above indicated—nearly three times that of the American cotton fields—it is but small in comparison with the vast extent of British India. The cotton tract in the valley of the Godavary alone is said to be of greater extent than the whole American cotton field. Guzerat under the present demand is expected to send forward, during the current year, not less than three hundred millions of lbs., and this district is not one hundredth part of India. It has been said, on what may be deemed good authority, that more cotton is annually wasted in India than is grown in America; and there is no doubt but that, by stimulating the production, not only will the culture be extended over a greater area, but the productive power of the land will be materially increased. If to the completion of the works of irrigation already in progress, and the construction of railways, is added the stimulus of high prices in Liverpool, it seems reasonable to conclude that the supply of cotton from India will rapidly increase.

A recent writer justly observes that, "up to the present, the supply from India has been entirely influenced and overawed by that from America. Omitting years like 1855, when New Orleans cotton was selling at 10½d., and Surats (or East India) at 7½d.; and coming down to later days, when American cotton was selling in Liverpool nearly as low as 4d. and Surats at 3d., we shall see reason to conclude that the development of the power of India to compete with America is in one respect a question of price."

Indian cotton is often delayed for months at the place of its growth by want of transport, during which period it is subject to a deterioration of at least ½d. per lb. The cost of growing it is estimated at 1½d. per lb., it costs another ½d. to carry it to Bombay (or other point of export), and the freight to Liverpool adds another 1d. per lb.; hence it cannot be sold in England at less than 4d. per lb.

In 1845, the largest crop ever produced (up to that date) in America was bought to market, and the price of the superior grades fell to a point which compelled the holder of Indian cotton to sell at 3d. per lb. This inflicted an actual loss of 1d. per lb., and purchasers for the European market withdrew their agents from India. As a consequence, the exports during the following year fell to about one half their previous quantity. On the other hand, when, in 1856, the price of American cotton in Liverpool had risen to 6d. per lb., and Indian to 4½d., there was imported in the succeeding year the greatest quantity ever received from India, namely, 250,000,000 lbs.

In 1858 the efforts of the East India Company were first directed to the promotion of the growth of Cotton, and to the improvement of its quality. In the same year was made the first exportation of Indian Cotton to England. In 1814 the exports to England amounted to 4,000,000 of pounds, and they have since increased in the following ratio:—

1851	25,805,153 lbs.
1852	49,217,734
1845	58,437,426
1851	84,923,022
1858	132,722,626

Next after India we may refer to the gradually increasing production of Cotton in Egypt. Its cultivation was first promoted by Mahmoud Pacha, who, no sooner became convinced of the fitness of the soil and climate, than he set about the prosecution of the enterprise with such vigor and sagacity, that within two years he exported nearly six thousand bales of a superior quality to England. In 1858 this quantity had been advanced to 38,248,112 lbs., and in the same year France obtained 7,434,300 lbs. from the same source. In 1855 the total quantity exported was 55,743,000 pounds, and the home consumption was estimated at from five to six millions of pounds.

England also receives large quantities of cotton wool from Brazil. In 1849 the quantity approximated closely upon 31,000,000 of pounds, and though it hardly reached 23,000,000 in 1859, this falling off is attributed to competition with American supplies, and to the fact that in Brazil Cotton can not be successfully cultivated near the coast; the difficulty of transporting it from the interior adds so much to its cost as to render it unprofitable. The Brazilian Government has offered encouragement for the construction of Railways, by guaranteeing interest on the outlay, and they are in process of construction by British capitalists. Their completion will remove the main difficulty to the increase of the Cotton culture, and the exports will unquestionably be largely increased.

India, Egypt and Brazil are not the only resources to which the British manufacturer can resort for his raw Cotton. At the present moment importations of Cotton arrive in Liverpool from five distinct regions of the earth—the United States, India, Egypt, Brazil, and the West Indies. Samples have also been produced from the Western parts of Africa, as well as from Australia and Natal of excellent staple and general good quality. The quantity as yet obtained is small. But let us call to mind the rapidity with which the American supply has reached its present importance; less than seventy years ago the exports of Cotton from the United States were nil; in 1794 they exported but 5,340 bales of 300 lbs. each, which embraced the entire crop. If such small amounts have expanded to the present enormous production, who shall say that Africa, with its teeming population and genial climate, will not speedily increase its modest contribution of 21 bales in 1859, to an amount which, if not equal to that now sent from America, may yet startle us by rapidity of increase. It appears from the narratives of Clapperton and Landers that Cotton is grown very extensively in all parts of Africa. Dr. Livingston tells us of vast ranges of country suitable for the cultivation of the plant. In one place, he says, "The markets are well supplied with provisions by great numbers of women, every one of whom is seen spinning cotton with a spindle and distaff exactly like those which were in use among the ancient Egyptians. * * * The cotton was brought to the market for sale, and I bought a pound for a penny. This was the price demanded, and probably double what they ask from each other. We saw the cotton growing luxuriantly all around the market place from seeds dropped accidentally. It is seen also about the native huts * * * We met on the road natives passing with bundles of cops or spindles full of cotton thread, and these they were carrying to other parts, to be woven into cloth." In a country so congenial to the production of the staple, with a population naturally docile though fond of display, there requires but the opportunity and the knowledge that they can at once exchange the raw material so easily obtained, for the fabric they so highly prize, to induce them to apply themselves to cultivating and collecting it at such points as may be selected by the European traders for making the exchange.

Summing up the supplies obtained from all quarters we find that England in 1859 received 1,226 millions of pounds of Cotton wool, of which 962 millions went from the United States, and the remaining 264 millions from all other countries; and that in 1860 this enormous quantity had increased to 1,391 millions of pounds.

Such facts, showing as they do the vast preponderance of the supply obtained from one source over that obtained from all others, have not failed to produce their effect on the public mind of the mother country. We find Mr. J. B. Smith holding the following language in a paper read before the Society of Arts in 1857: "It is much to be desired that our supplies of the raw material for so great a manufacture should be derived from a variety of sources, that we may, so far as possible, be thus protected from the fluctuations in prices incident to good or bad seasons; but, unfortunately, they are chiefly derived from one source. * * * But not only are we exposed to the danger of being limited chiefly to one source of supply, but to a still greater hazard, namely, that this supply in the production of slave labor. It may be that the institution of slavery, although condemned by all civilized nations, may yet exist for ages in the United States; or it may happen that occurrences may any day endanger its continuance. The alarm created by recent symptoms of discontent among the slaves in that country, is evidence that their owners themselves are not without apprehensions of danger; and it is impossible for those interested in the Cotton manufactures of this country to contemplate with unconcern the insecurity on which this vast manufacture rests. This is not a local question—it has become a great national question—and must be forced upon the attention of statesmen of all parties. To meet appears the importance of the subject can scarcely be overrated."

With such motives to action, so forcibly expressed by one who had the ear of those most interested a few years ago, it is not likely that our manufacturers are so unprepared as our neighbours imagine,—with the necessity of dealing promptly with this great question, so prominently brought home to them by the present disturbances in the United States and the consequent attempt to blockade the cotton ports of the Southern Confederacy,—with so wide a field for action before them,—we may be sure that the commercial enterprise of Britain will not sleep.

It will not be long ere the absurdity of that rooted idea of the Southern planter—we may almost add, of the Northern merchant—that "cotton is king," will be fully demonstrated; and they will then awake to the conviction that they are but as the flies on the rim of the wheel, and must struggle for dear life to find customers for their bales in the overstocked markets of the world. The quarrel which was arrogantly assumed to be the precursor of the downfall of the commercial supremacy of Great Britain, bids fair to be the immediate cause of largely increasing and cheapening the world's supply of the raw material, and of giving a greater impulse to the productive powers of the British looms than any thing that has happened since the inventions of Hargreaves, Arkwright, and Watt.

As with many other branches of manufacture, that of Cotton was driven into England by the tyranny of continental rulers. It first took root in Manchester about the beginning of the 17th century, where it was encouraged by the municipal authorities granting to the political and religious refugees (who brought the art with them) valuable privileges for a nominal consideration, such as the privilege of cutting timber for their farms in the extensive forests owned by the Wardens and Fellows of Manchester College. The industrious immigrant was also encouraged by privileges from the Crown. "The provident Elizabeth," says l'Abbé de Smet, "did not confine her views to the relief of her religious partizans, but sought to transfer into her kingdom those prosperous trades of the low countries which adjoining states had looked upon with envious eyes."

At this time the operative weaver had usually his residence in the country where, in his garden-plot, he eked out his earnings by the cultivation of his small holding. This was a necessity. The uncertainty of procuring a regular supply of material for his loom rendering his legitimate work exceedingly precarious.

The fly shuttle was invented by Kaye of Bury in 1750, and, in 1760 James Hargreaves had perfected important improvements in the carding process. In 1762, the father of the late Sir Robert Peel erected one of his improved machines at Blackburn, which did not materially differ from those now in use. In 1757, the same James Hargreaves invented the SPINNING JENNY, and after several unsuccessful attempts succeeded in producing a machine with which he could spin eight threads at once. He speedily improved on his first attempt, and constructed a JENNY to run eight spindles. This may be considered as the leading step in that march of discovery which has improved every branch of the manufacture.

Like other benefactors of the human race, Mr. Hargreaves was not destined to reap much advantage from his discoveries. He was hunted from his native place, and settled in Nottingham, where he shortly after died—if not in great poverty, as has been asserted—certainly in very indigent circumstances.

About the same time, Mr. Arkwright, of Preston in Lancashire, gave his attention to the improvement of spinning machinery. He was brought up to the humble occupation of a barber, but seems to have been endowed with a rare combination of inventive talent, and a capacity for business. His want of mechanical skill was compensated by arduous and perseverance, and he succeeded, after many struggles with adverse circumstances, in perfecting that rare piece of mechanism called at first the Water Frame, and subsequently the Throstle, which performs of itself the whole process of spinning, leaving to the workman only the duty of supplying it with material and of placing such threads as are accidentally broken.

In partnership with Mr. Strutt, a man of great mechanical ability, Mr. Arkwright erected a mill at Nottingham for spinning yarn with his machinery. In 1771, he removed to Cromford, where he erected another mill, and where he continued to follow up his first great invention, with as many important though subordinate improvements. He was not however to enjoy the fruits of his invention without dispute. Like Hargreaves he was first persecuted as an innovator; then, when the value of his inventions was demonstrated by the work they produced, his patents were contested, and, had it not been for his business tact, his inventions would have been pirated by the very men who had ridiculed them, and persecuted him.

It is commonly believed—and often applied to as a fact by the advocates of protection to home manufacturers—that the factory system of Great Britain was fostered into existence by protective duties. So far as this branch of the system is concerned, nothing can be more erroneous. It fought its way in the face of adverse laws. No sooner had A. Cartwright and his partners surmounted the mechanical difficulties that lay in their path than they discovered that they were doomed to ruin, unless they could command sufficient wealth and influence to obtain the repeal of preposterous legislative enactments. It was not until 1774 that Parliament was pleased to recognize the propriety of permitting genuine cotton fabrics to be made and sold, and then only under vexatious excise restrictions. The sapient lawgivers had previously considered it a necessary stroke of policy to ensure the consumption of home-grown material by requiring that a certain proportion of every fabric should be composed of liver yarn. It required no small degree of energy, and involved very great expenditure of time, to beat down the influence wielded by the defenders of home productions.

About 1792, Samuel Compton learned to spin with one of Hargreaves's jennys, and, being dissatisfied with the quality of the yarn produced, he set about improving it. His efforts resulted in the mule. With his machine—which, not being a mechanic, he had elaborated under great difficulties—he produced a superior article, which excited the public mind, and he was beset by the prying curiosity of the country people—that in order to get rid of the vexation he exhibited his invention to those who choose to subscribe a guinea each. In this way he raised about fifty pounds, with which he constructed a superior and larger machine. He took out no patent, but subsequently received £5000 from Parliament.

When Arkwright's patents were cancelled and the use of his preparatory processes became general, the full value of Compton's inventions became known, and the use of the Mule Jenny marked an important era in the history of the Cotton Manufacture.

The enormous productiveness of the spinning machinery could never have been utilized, had the conversion of the yarn into the woven fabric depended on the hand loom weaver. It needed another important element to complete the series of automatic machinery, and this was supplied by Cartwright who, in 1784, invented the term of the Power Loom. In 1787, he completed his invention and erected a "factory" which, probably by reason of its want of business habits, was not successful as a pecuniary investment. Numerous subsequent improvements were made by Bell, Montell, Horrocks, Sharp, and Roberts, and a host of other inventors who have improved this machine until it may be said to be perfectly self-acting in all its operations.

Having thus briefly glanced at the successive steps by which the inventive genius of the last century supplied the mechanism, we will now, with similar brevity, examine the industrial structure which capital has raised with the tools thus placed within its reach.

About the time Compton completed his invention he received 14s. sterling per lb. for spinning and preparing No. 40 yarn, and shortly afterwards he was paid 25s. sterling for No. 60. To show how fine a grist he could spin, he produced yarns as fine as No. 80, for which he obtained 42s. per lb. More perfect mechanism and improved skill enabled the spinners to work still finer grists for lower prices, and, in 1793, only 8d. sterling per lb. was paid for No. 100. Notwithstanding, however, this extraordinary diminution of price, by aid of the improved machinery, superior judgment in the selection of suitable cotton wool, and greater skill in working, the spinners can with less labour earn more money than they did when the prices were high.

Nor is the saving effected by the power loom in weaving of much less importance than that due to the spinning machinery. The invention of the fly shuttle by John Kaye doubled the productive power of the hand loom; but even as compared with the loom in this improved state, the mechanism wherewith a girl is enabled to produce from three to four hundred yards of four-fifths cloth per week is as great an economical triumph as is the invention of the spinning frames that produce the yarn.

Applying the great saving in the details of the cost of production to the quantities annually worked up we have the key to the wonderful expansion of this branch of industry, and we are enabled to understand the means whereby the manufacturer is enabled to place within reach of the multitude those fabrics that contribute so much to the civilization with which we are surrounded.

We have alluded to the probable increase in the supply of raw material from regions which hitherto have not contributed at all, or only in a small degree, supplies of cotton to the manufacturer. It is well that these regions are so widely spread, and that they have a capacity to yield bountifully, for manufacturing power has increased, and indeed is still increasing at a rate which has no parallel in the records of industrial enterprise. The quantity of cotton annually consumed by each spindle in the United Kingdom is  $3\frac{1}{2}$  lbs., and it is estimated by those best acquainted with the case, that in the past year the rate of increase in the number of spindles was not less than 45,000 per week, representing an increase in the consumption of cotton, of upwards of 74,000,000 lbs. per annum. As the average consumption of cotton per hand employed has been 2351 lbs., this increase indicates an annual increase of 31,600 in the factory population of Britain. It is noteworthy that, notwithstanding this extraordinary increase in production, the supply of the manufactured article does not keep pace with the expansion of the markets, the scarcely perceptible reduction in price being entirely due to the steady improvement in the machinery used.

The following Table will give some idea of the periodical increase of this branch of business and of the enormous values involved:—

	Estimated Total Value of Cotton Goods Manufactured in Great Britain.		Average price per yard.		Average price of Yarn, per lb.		Average price of broad Cotton per lb.
	£	Stg.	£	Stg.	£	Stg.	£	Stg.
1760	.....	.....	17½	4½	4½	21½	.....	.....
1815	.....	.....	9	11½	20½	11½	.....	.....
1820	.....	.....	8½	12	12	6½	.....	.....
1827	.....	.....	7½	12½	12½	6	.....	.....
1830	.....	.....	4½	14½	14½	6	.....	.....
1840	.....	.....	4½	12½	12½	7½	.....	.....
1850	.....	.....	4½	12	12	7½	.....	.....
1860	.....	.....	3½	12	12	7½	.....	.....

We may add, that at the present time the total number of spindles employed in the Cotton Manufactures of Britain is estimated at 34,000,000, and that the Cotton industry of the rest of the world is estimated to be, collectively, equal to that of the United Kingdom.

The space at our disposal scarcely permits us to glance at the Manufactures of the New England States. They have been stimulated into existence by the protective duties levied by the Federal Government, which in some cases are almost equivalent to a prohibition against foreign goods. Under the protection thus afforded, the number of spindles at work rose from 8,000 in 1804 to 2,754,078 in 1850; while in 1854 their products were valued at $61,869,184—about £12,000,000 Sterling.

We have the history of the rise and progress of the various branches of Manufacture in the manufacturing districts of Britain to warrant us in the conclusion that priority of selection—other things being equal—exercises an enduring influence in permanently locating a particular branch of industry. We have noticed how Manchester early became the seat of the manufacture of textile fabrics, by reason of the encouragement given by the municipal authorities, and we have seen how that branch of industry has clung to the place of its birth through succeeding generations. Other instances might be cited. Glasgow was the genial birth-place of successful Power-loom weaving, and still retains a preëminence in that branch. Nottingham was the refuge of the first promoters of the stocking-frame, and of the subsequent inventors of Bobbin-Net Lace manufacture, and with the adjacent county of Derby is still the chief seat of those industries. Undoubtedly there were important considerations which influenced selection, and which could not be over-ruled by favours within the gift of localities. When power spinning and weaving were first successfully introduced, sites otherwise inconvenient were selected which offered considerable water power. Water relieved the cotton spinners from the necessity of seeking power at the expense of other advantages. Then the extensive employment of Steam induced the establishment of factories where coal is abundant. The improvements that have been made in the Steam Engine, and the consequent economy of fuel has rendered this consideration even of minor consequence: one ton of coal can now do as much work as three tons did some years ago. Notwithstanding, however, the opposing circumstances here mentioned, the early establishment of any branch of industry in a locality has exercised an important influence. How else shall we account for the eminence of Sheffield in Cutlery, Birmingham in Hardware, Bradford in Worsted, and Leeds in the Cloth trade?

In a country so new and so essentially agricultural as Canada, it is not likely that any large amount of labour applicable to manufacturing purposes will be available, for the simple reason that it may be more profitably employed; hence, it would be folly to attempt the establishment of factories on a large scale and in competition with the abundant labour of the Mother Country. Nevertheless, there is invariably a portion of all town populations that cannot, in the absence of Manufactories, find profitable, or indeed any, employment.

It is difficult, however, to define what encouragement may prudently be given. It is certain that any protection which enhances the cost of the manufactured article to the consumer, indicates an erroneous policy, being in direct opposition to the reasonable desire of all prudent people to buy in the cheapest market. Where the removal of a temporary disadvantage can be effected by relief from local taxation, or where the disadvantages incident to the education of unskilled labour, which the establishment of a new branch of industry tends to rectify, can be balanced by an immediate and definite contribution of capital, it may redound to the advantage of a locality to promote the introduction of such industries as will absorb its surplus labour, by contributing in a moderate degree such encouragement as may be necessary. Encouragement, however, should be given with caution, and anything like the payment of a bounty or a guarantee of profit to compensate such abiding disadvantages of position as occasion onerous freight charges, excessive cost of fuel, or disadvantages originating in the high price of capital, labour, or supplies of raw material, and which from their nature must necessarily be continuous, ought to be avoided.

It has sometimes been asserted that a manufacturing population is not desirable; that neither the mental nor physical health of the operatives can be satisfactory in the atmosphere of the Factory, and especially that the monotonous employment incident to a minute sub-division of labour is not calculated to promote intelligence. Such assertions arise in mis-apprehension. Manufactories are not necessarily unhealthy. So long ago as 1835 it was shown by an eminent writer that in the non-manufacturing counties, Bedford, Bucks, Northampton, and Rutland, the average mortality of females between 10 and 20 (the Factory age) years of age was one in 113, while in Lancashire and the West Riding of Yorkshire, the two chief factory counties of England, the mortality between the same ages was only 1 in 177. Since then great improvements have been made in the interest of the factory operatives. Their hours of labour have been reduced; ventilation has been perfected; less numbers are employed within a given space; baths, with every convenience for personal cleanliness, are provided in well regulated establishments; while steady employment and remunerative wages enable them to obtain sufficient of the necessities and many of the luxuries of life. As to their morality, it may be fairly asked whether the idlers and disreputable characters that now infest our streets and are trained to vice in our drinking dens would not be more likely to improve than to degenerate, if they could be profitably employed? Whether if the now valid assertion that there is no certain employment for the younger members of the labourer's family were removed, we should not be more likely to see them forced into employment by public opinion? But such arguments are superfluous in the presence of the well ascertained and well avouched fact, that factory populations are as free from vice as agriculturalists. Nor has the remaining exception greater force. It has been well remarked—"By working together, factory labourers have many opportunities, of which those employed in the fields are comparatively destitute, of discussing all the manner of topics. Their intellects are sharpened by the collision of opinion. They desire to know what is going on in the world, and by each contributing a small sum they obtain an ample supply of newspapers and other periodical publications, and sometimes form book clubs. But whatever doubt may exist as to its cause, there can be none in regard to the superior information of the work people employed in factories. We do not believe that they were ever less intelligent than farm labourers. But whatever may have been the case formerly, none will venture to affirm that they are so at present, or that they are mere machines without sentiment or reason."

Before laying down our pen we must briefly refer to one thing which will ever materially affect the establishment of manufactures in every new country, and which no legislation can modify or remove—the value of realized labour—in other words, of Capital. The prices of most manufactured goods, but especially of cotton, depends more on the profits on stock than on the price of labour. It is the abundance of capital that cheapens production as much as the abundance of labour. If capital is worth ten per cent. in Canada, while it is worth only four per cent. in England, ceteris paribus, the English capitalist who has £100,000 invested will sell the annual production of his mills for £6,000 less than the Canadian capitalist can afford to sell the produce of £100,000 similarly invested. This lowness of profit may not be considered an advantage to those who own the capital, but the fact must be dealt with as it exists. It is one of the results of the realization of profits which have accumulated in older countries, while here they have yet to be acquired. It should be the aim of those who would promote the acquisition and investment of capital here, to apply its cheapened products to our advantage. To place within our reach the means whereby to live and enjoy life cheaply, while we direct our energies to the most profitable employments. In preparing the products of our forests and in forwarding them to market there is ample room for the employment of capital. The fields reclaimed from the wilderness by the husbandman will absorb the capital and labour of the husbandman. The fisheries, and the construction and navigation of shipping, wherewith to exchange the produce of our soil for the products of the looms and anvils of Europe, will employ our maritime population, many artisans and much capital. The Government that, ignoring these plain principles, would by unwise tariffs encourage a misdirection of capital and industry, must be ill advised in the science of wealth.

Recognizing these principles however, there is yet room for the introduction of certain classes of manufacturing industry. It is undeniable that in our larger towns and in cities, there is a class that live in enforced idleness. The capitalist who will furnish the means for giving them employment will deserve well of the community, and will most likely reap a substantial reward in the shape of reasonable profits on his outlay.

SOMETHING ABOUT CANADA;

Being Extracts from a Pamphlet issued under the auspices of the Bureau of Agriculture.

The Province of Canada embraces about 350,000 square miles of territory, independently of its North-Western possessions, not yet open for settlement; it is consequently more than one-third larger than France, nearly three times as large as Great Britain and Ireland, and more than three times as large as Prussia. The inhabited or settled portion covers at least 40,000 square miles, and is nearly twice as large as Denmark, three times as large as Switzerland, a third greater than Scotland, and more than a third the size of Prussia; but such is the rapid progress of settlement, that probably in ten years time the settled parts of Canada will be equal in area to Great Britain or Prussia.

Prior to the year 1840, Canada was divided into two distinct provinces, known as Upper and Lower Canada, possessing separate legislative bodies or Parliaments for the local government of each. In 1840, these provinces were united, although for some purposes the old territorial divisions still exist. Upper Canada is that part of the now United Provinces which lies to the south and west of the River Ottawa; Lower Canada embraces the country to the north and east of that river.

Three hundred miles from the vast outlet of the River St. Lawrence we pass the mouth of the Saguenay, a deep and noble river, navigable for the largest vessels seventy miles from its outlet. Four hundred and ten miles sailing from the ocean, and we reach Quebec, the great sea-port of Canada, with a large and increasing foreign commerce. Five hundred miles sailing finds us at the limit of the tide-water, and we now begin in reality to ascend the stream of the St. Lawrence. Five hundred and ninety miles brings us to Montreal, near where the Ottawa or Grand River of the North mingles its red waters with those of the St. Lawrence, after draining a valley of 80,000 square miles in area, lying to the north-west, and thus commanding the inexhaustible treasures of the magnificent forests of a part of Canada more than twice the size of Bavaria, or the Sardinian States, and six times the superficial limits of Holland.

It is at Montreal that those lasting monuments of enterprise, courage and art begin to develop the secret of Canadian inland navigation. We have reached the St. Lawrence canals—seven in number—constructed for the purpose of overcoming the obstacles to continuous navigation presented by the rapids. These canals, of different lengths and great capacity, fitted for sea-going vessels, enable us to ascend 116 miles of river in actual horizontal distance, overcoming a fall of 225 feet above the level of tide-water. Fifty-two miles of sailing, 168 miles above Montreal, and we are in Lake Ontario, 756 miles from the sea, and 234 feet above it. Lake Ontario is 180 miles long, from 50 to 60 miles wide, and 500 feet deep, and has an area of 8,600 square miles. Swiftly traversing its expanse, in sight, probably, of hundreds of other vessels and steamers, we reach the outlet of the Welland Canal, through which, by means of 27 locks, we rise 330 feet to the waters of Lake Erie, 1,041 from the sea, and 564 feet above its level. Our progress is still on through Lake Erie, until we arrive at the city of Detroit, in the State of Michigan, through Lake St. Clair and the St. Clair River into Lake Huron, 1,355 from our starting point, and 573 feet above the ocean. We may now sail on to St. Mary's River, and, passing through a short and gigantic canal, constructed by the people of the United States, enter Lake Superior, with a fresh-water sea as large as Ireland before us, and enabling us to attain a distance of 2,000 miles from the mouth of the St. Lawrence; or, we may sail southward into Lake Michigan, and land at that wonderful creation of the Great West, Chicago.

The natural advantages conferred upon Canada by the St. Lawrence River and the Great Lakes are not merely immense—they are incalculable. Immediate and direct water communication with the sea for two thousand miles of inland coast, without any reference to the nearly equal extent of coast belonging to the States of the Union, or the vast affluents which feed the St. Lawrence and the Lakes, striking deep into the heart of the country, appears in itself sufficient to mark out Canada for a distinguished future; but when the influence which her vast inland seas exercise upon climate, vegetation, health, and internal commerce, is understood, the character of that future may be partially foretold, even in the youth of Canadian history, and before her enterprise and capabilities have become fully known and appreciated.

Water power, that mighty engine of industry, is everywhere abundant, and just where it is required, in the midst of magnificent forests of valuable timber, for which an exhaustible market is springing up in the Far West Prairie region of the American Union, as well as in France and England, where, too, a demand is growing (almost too rapidly for the means of supply) for the more valuable kinds of cabinet-work woods, with which Canadian forests abound.

There are now 1,876 miles of Railway in operation in Canada, independent of the Grand Trunk extension to Portland, 164 miles in length, which, though running through the United States, to secure an ocean port in winter, is really a Canadian road. It is worthy of remark that Canada has now more miles of railway open than Ireland or Scotland, or any one of the New England States; more than the three Atlantic States of New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland; or the two Carolinas, North and South; and more, in proportion to its population, than any other country in the world. The opening of the Victoria Bridge, and the section between St. Mary's and Detroit, have brought the Grand Trunk into unbroken operation, and it will now be able to transport passengers and goods from the Atlantic to the Mississippi with but one transhipment, and a saving, it is alleged, of five days over all other routes.

The principal economic Minerals of Canada are stated by Sir W. E. Logan to be:

METALS AND THEIR ORES.—Magnetic iron ore; limonite (bog ore); titaniferous iron; sulphuret of zinc (Blende); sulphuret of lead (Galenae); copper, native, sulphuret of, variegated; copper pyrites; argentiferous ditto, and containing gold, nickel; silver, with native copper and sulphuret of silver; gold.

NON-METALLIC MINERALS.—Uranium, chromium, cobalt, manganese, iron pyrites, graphite, dolomite, carbonate of magnesia, sulphate of barytes, iron ochres, stextile, lithographic stone, agates, jasper, felspar, aventurine, hyacinth, corundum, amethyst, jet, quartzose, sandstone, retinite and basalt, gypsum, shell marl, phosphate of lime, mill-stones, grindstones, whetstones, tripoli.

BUILDING MATERIALS.—Granites, sandstone, calcareous sandstone, limestones, hydraulic limestones, roofing slates, flagging stones, clays, moulding sand, fuller's earth; Marbles—white, black, red, brown, yellow and black, gray and variegated, green.

COMBUSTIBLES.—Peat, petroleum, asphaltum.

FISHERIES, L. C.—Lower Canada possesses, in the River and Gulf of St. Lawrence, an extent of coast 1,000 miles, where the cod, herring, mackerel, salmon and other fisheries are carried on successfully. Whale fishing is also carried on by vessels fitted out from the port of Gaspé. The average season value of whale oil has been about $27,000. The cod fishing is carried on along the whole shore of Canada; the herring fishing principally at the Magdalen Islands, in the Bay of Chaleurs, and on the coast of Labrador; the mackerel fishing at the Magdalen Islands, along the coast of Gaspé, and in the lower part of the River St. Lawrence. There are about seventy salmon fishery rivers in Lower Canada, which the Government are now fostering, with a view to enhance the commerce in this valuable fish. The latest annual catch is 3,750 barrels. The Bay of Chaleurs alone formerly exported 10,000 barrels. The number of boats belonging to Canada, fishing on the Canadian shores, is from 1,200 to 1,500. Nearly 100 Canadian vessels are employed in the fisheries of Canada. The number of fishing vessels from Nova Scotia and the other Lower Provinces, fishing on our shores, is from 250 to 300. The number of fishing vessels from the United States frequenting our shores, principally for the cod and mackerel fishing, is from 200 to 300. Total fish productions in 1860 were valued at $942,528.

FISHERIES, U. C.—The merchantable fish products derived from the lakes and rivers of Upper Canada, consist chiefly of white fish, salmon, salmon trout, herring, lake trout, speckled trout, sturgeon, pickerel, bass, masacunge, &c. Inferior kinds also abound in the smaller lakes, tributaries and streams. The extensive area, great depth, clear cold waters, abundant feeding banks, shoals and spawning grounds of the principal Upper Canadian lakes, render the fish found therein numerous, of good quality, and large size. The annual take of the different species of fish is carefully estimated at $390,000 in value.

The rise and progress of cities and towns in Canada afford a curious and most instructive illustration of the expansion of the country, the development of its resources, the increase of its wealth, and the activity and energy of its people. Montreal is the largest city in Canada, and contains over 90,000 inhabitants; Quebec ranks next, with 51,000; Toronto third, with nearly 45,000. In 1831, Montreal and Quebec contained a population of about 27,000 each. The history of Toronto foreshadows the history of other towns in Canada. In 1842, a period so recent that most will remember it, Toronto contained 13,000 inhabitants; in 1852, 30,763; and in 1856, 42,000. Toronto is situated on Lake Ontario, and may be considered as the type of a thriving commercial Canadian port on one of the great lakes. London, in Upper Canada, contained, in 1850, 5,124 inhabitants; its population in 1860 exceeded 11,500, having doubled its population in ten years.

Everywhere, postal communication is complete. The most distant hamlet has its post-office, and the number of offices in Canada is now about 1,720. The electric telegraph passes through every town and almost every village in the Province, and the number of miles in operation at this time is 4,046. The approach or arrival of a steamer or sailing vessel at Quebec, is known very nearly at the same moment in every town in the Lower and Upper portions of the Province. All improvements in the arts or sciences, affecting the commercial or industrial interests of her people, are quickly introduced into Canada; and, with numerous elements of adaptation and progress within her reach, she eagerly avails herself of the practice and enterprise of other countries.

The great and unfailing source of this steady growth, this quiet but irresistible onward movement of Canada, has been IMMIGRATION; the infusion of new blood, the adoption of a new and prosperous home by tens of thousands from across the seas and beyond the frontiers; a home which, with all its immunities, privileges and hopes, is offered, requiring no other return than a strong arm, a willing heart, and a confident, self-relying trust in the future, and in the happiness and prosperity of their adopted country.

The Municipal system of Canada is admirably adapted to the exigencies of a young and vigorous country; its success has been complete. In order to comprehend it, it is necessary to state that Upper Canada is divided into counties, forty-two in number; each county is divided into townships, so that, on an average, each township is about ten miles square. The inhabitants of a township elect five Councillors; the Councillors elect out of this number a presiding officer, who is designated the Town Reeve; the Town Reeves of the different townships form the County Council; this Council elect their presiding officer, who is styled the Warden. The Town Council and County Council are Municipal Corporations, possessing the power to raise money for municipal purposes, such as making public improvements, opening and repairing roads and bridges, &c. Repayment is secured by a tax on all the property in the township or county where the debt is incurred; but no by-law for raising money can be enforced, unless it has been previously submitted to the electors or people. Each Corporation possesses the power of suing, and is liable to be sued; and their by-laws, if illegal, are subject to be annulled by the Superior Courts of the Province, at the instance of any elector.

Each Township Council has the power to provide for the support of Common Schools, under the provisions of the School Law; to construct roads, bridges and water-courses, &c., to appoint path-masters or road-inspectors, &c. The County Councils are charged with the construction and repairs of gaols and court-houses, roads and bridges, houses of correction, and grammar schools, under the provisions of the school-law; to grant moneys by loan to public works tending to the improvement of the country, and to levy taxes for the redemption of the debts incurred subject to the proviso before mentioned, namely, the vote of the people. Villages not having a population over 1,000 are governed by a board of police, and are styled Police Villages; possessing over 1,000 inhabitants they become Incorporated Villages, and are governed by a Council of five, whose Reeve is a member of the County Council, ex officio; as soon as a Village acquires a population exceeding three thousand, it becomes a Town governed by a Mayor and Council, and is represented in the County Council by a Town Reeve and Deputy Town Reeve. When the number of inhabitants exceed 10,000 it may be created a city, and is governed by a Mayor, Aldermen and Councilmen. All Town Reeves, Wardens, Mayors, and Aldermen are ex officio Justices of the Peace.

In Lower Canada a similar system prevails. That section of the Province is divided into sixty Counties, each of which has a county council, composed of the Mayors of the Local Councils within the County. Every Township, Parish, or Village, all called Local Municipalities, elect seven Councillors, who choose one of themselves as presiding officer, styled the Mayor. The Mayors forming the County Council elect also a presiding officer, who is called the Warden. In Lower Canada there are four cities, five towns, and forty-three incorporated villages. Any tract of land containing forty houses within any part of it, not exceeding sixty superficial arpents, may be erected into a Village Municipality, on the presentation to the County Council of a petition signed by thirty or more qualified resident electors. Whenever the population of an incorporated village amounts to 3,000 souls, it may be proclaimed a town. Cities are erected only by legislative enactment. Every Mayor and Warden is ex officio a Justice of the Peace within the limits of the municipality wherein he has been elected or appointed, so long as he continues to act as Mayor or Warden.

The Provincial Normal School of Upper Canada is a highly effective and useful institution for the Training of teachers, and annually sends forth from 100 to 150 young men and women, who, having been uniformly instructed in the art of conducting a school, and communicating knowledge, gradually are establishing in Upper Canada a system of common school education of great promise.

In 1842 the number of common schools in Upper Canada was 1721, attended by 65,978 children; in 1860 the number of schools was 3,069, attended by 315,812 children, and the average time during which the schools were open was ten months and six days. Each school section is governed by an elective corporation, styled School Trustees, and is supplied, partly at Government expense, with a small library of selected literature. The number of volumes which have been already distributed for this purpose amounts to 532,893.

The Free School system is gaining ground in many parts of Canada, the principle it involves implies the support of common schools, open to all, by a general tax, and the non-exaction of fees. Any school section may adopt it by the vote of the majority of its inhabitants. Separate schools for Roman Catholics are sanctioned under certain regulations.

The Grammar schools and Academies are 121 in number, with 5,530 pupils. They are intended to form a connecting link between the common schools and the universities. Teachers must be graduates of some university; they receive an allowance from Government in addition to fees. The amount raised for grammar school purposes in 1858 was £15,123 sterling.

Besides a richly endowed Provincial University, supplied with a complete staff of highly competent Professors and Lecturers, there are several other universities and colleges in Upper Canada in connection with different religious denominations. The standard of education adopted in some of the Canadian Universities assimilates as closely as possible to that established in the time-honoured Institutions of Great Britain and Ireland, and the ranks of the professional staffs are generally supplied from the same unfailing sources.

In the valleys of some of the largest rivers of Upper Canada, wheat has been grown after wheat for twenty years; the first crops yielded an average of forty bushels to the acre, but under the thoughtless system of husbandry then pursued, the yield diminished to twelve bushels to the acre, and compelled a change of system, which soon had the effect of restoring the land to its original fertility. This system of exhaustion has effected its own cure, and led to the introduction of a more rational method of cultivating the soil. The average yield of wheat in some townships exceeds 22 bushels to the acre, and where an approach to good farming prevails the yield rises to thirty and often forty bushels to the acre. On new land fifty bushels is not very uncommon; and it must not be forgotten that Canadian wheat, grown near the city of Toronto, won a first prize at the Paris Exhibition. It may truly be said that the soil of what may be termed the agricultural portion of Canada, which comprises four-fifths of the inhabited portion, and a vast area still in the hands of the Government and now open to settlement, is unexceptionable; and when deterioration takes place, it is the fault of the farmer and not of the soil. In Canada the yield of wheat in 1859 considerably exceed 25,000,000 bushels; and the quality of Canadian wheat is so superior, that the American millers buy it, for the purpose of mixing with grain grown in the United States, in order to improve the quality of their flour, and in some instances to render it fit for exportation.

The rate on Letters to the United Kingdom is, by Canadian Packet,

Not exceeding  $\frac{1}{2}$  oz. .... 12½ cents.

Exceeding " and not exceeding 1 oz. .... 25 "

" " 1 oz. and not " 2 oz. .... 50 "

and so on, increasing two rates of postage for each additional ounce.

And by Cunard Packet, 17 cents per  $\frac{1}{2}$  oz., &c.

Letters for the United Kingdom must be prepaid, or they will be charged a fine of 6d. sterling on delivery.

Letters for British Colonies and Possessions beyond Sea, and Foreign Countries, via England, must be prepaid.

The rate on letters for the U. States, (except California and Oregon) 10 cents per  $\frac{1}{2}$  oz.

" for California and Oregon ..... 15 "

The Postage rate to British Columbia is,

Letters ..... 15 cents per  $\frac{1}{2}$  oz.

Newspapers ..... 2 cents each.

MAILS FOR CANADA FROM ENGLAND.

Two Ocean Steamers carrying mails for Canada leave Liverpool in each week, viz.: a Canadian Packet on every Thursday, via Derry on Friday, sailing to Quebec in summer and Portland in Winter, by which the Postage rate is 6d. stg. per  $\frac{1}{2}$  oz.; and a Cunard Packet every Saturday, via Cork on Sunday, bringing Mails for Canada, alternately to Boston and New York, by which the Postage rate to Canada is 8d. stg. per  $\frac{1}{2}$  oz.

The British Post Office forwards letters to Canada by the first packet sailing after the letter is posted, unless the letters bear a special direction—"By Canadian Packet" or "By British Packet"—and in that case they are kept over for the Packet designated. "By Canadian Mail" is not a distinctive superscription; for any Mail for Canada is a "Canadian Mail," by whatever Packet forwarded.

REGISTRATION OF LETTERS.

Persons posting Letters containing value, should be careful to require them to be registered, and to obtain from the Post Master a Certificate of receipt for Registration.

The charge for Registration, in addition to the Postage, is as follows, viz.:

On Letters to any other place in Canada, or British North America ..... 2 cents.

On Letters for the United States ..... 5 "

On Letters for the United Kingdom ..... 12½ "

On Letters for British Colonies or Possessions, sent via England ..... 25 "

On Letters for France and other Foreign Countries, via England, an amount equal to the postage rate.

Both the postage charge and registration fee must in all cases be prepaid.

Registration is not an absolute guarantee against the miscarriage or loss of a Letter; but a Registered Letter can be traced when an Unregistered Letter cannot, and the posting and delivery or non-delivery can be proven. A Registered Letter is thus secured against many of the casualties which, from incorrect address, forgetfulness of the receiver, or other error, may affect an Unregistered Letter.

MISCELLANEOUS CHARGES.

The charge on Parcels by Parcel Post, which does not extend to any place without the Province, is 25 cents per lb. (with 3 cts. additional if Registered.)

One cent per oz., payable in advance by Postage stamp, is the rate on Printed Circulars, Prices Current, Hand Bills and other Printed Matter of a like character, and on Books, bound or unbound, when posted at a Canadian Post Office addressed to any place in Canada, British North America generally, or the United States.

The charge on Books, &c., by Book Post to England, is 7 cents on packets not exceeding 4 oz. in weight, 12½ cents on  $\frac{1}{2}$  lb. packets, and 12½ cents additional for every additional  $\frac{1}{2}$  lb. These charges must be prepaid.

BOOK POST WITH FRANCE.

For a Packet of Printed matter, or single Newspaper, Book, &c. .... not over 2 oz. 4 cents.

Do. exceeding 2 oz. and " 4 oz. 8 "

Do. " 4 oz. and " 8 oz. 17 "

" " 8 oz. and " 1 lb. 34 "

And so on, increasing 17 cents for each additional  $\frac{1}{2}$  lb.

The Book Post regulations between Canada and England apply to matter between Canada and France.

NEWSPAPERS AND PERIODICALS.

Newspapers published in Canada may be sent by Post from the office of publication, addressed to any place in Canada, at the following rates, if paid quarterly in advance by either the publisher at the post office where the papers are posted, or by the subscriber at the delivering post office:

For a paper published 6 times a week, 40 cents per quarter.

" " 3 " 20 " "

" " 2 " 13 " "

" " 1 " 6½ " "

When the above rates are not paid in advance by either publisher or subscriber, such Papers are charged one cent each on delivery.

TRANSIENT NEWSPAPERS.

Transient Newspapers—that is to say, Canadian Newspapers posted otherwise than from the office of publication, and American or British papers posted or re-posted in Canada, must be prepaid 1 cent each, by postage stamp, or they cannot be forwarded—except only British Newspapers distributed to regular subscribers by Canadian Booksellers or News Agents—such papers pass free as they would do if received in the Canadian Packet Mails.

NEWSPAPERS BY MAIL FROM ENGLAND OR UNITED STATES.

Newspapers received from England by the Canadian Packet Mails are delivered free.

Newspapers from England by the Cunard Packet Mails are charged 2 cents each on delivery. (This is the American transit charge.)

United States Newspapers, brought by mail into Canada, are charged one cent each on delivery.

PERIODICAL PUBLICATIONS.

The rate on Periodical Publications is, if not exceeding 3 ounces in weight, 1 cent; over 3 ounces, 4 cents.

If prepaid by postage stamps from the office of publication, Periodicals published in Canada, weighing over 3 oz., may pass for 2 cents each.

Periodicals, printed in this Province, other than Newspapers, when specially devoted to the Education of Youth (both religious and general), to Agriculture, to Temperance, or to any branch of science, and addressed directly from the office of publication, to be transmitted to any post office in this Province, are exempt from charge.

Transient Periodicals—including Canadian Periodicals not prepaid the commuted rate from the office of publication—not exempted by the preceding clause, and all other Periodical publications posted in this Province, must be prepaid by Stamp, the full rate, at the time of posting.

Periodicals received in Mails from the United States are charged with the rates named in the 1st clause of this sec.

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

Troy Weight.

By this weight Gold, Silver, Platina, and Precious Stones, except Diamonds, are estimated.

20 Mites .....	1 Grain.	20 Pennywts. ....	1 Ounce.
24 Grains .....	1 Pennywt.	12 Ounces .....	1 Pound.

The Bank of England and many bullion dealers now use only the ounce and decimals of an ounce.

Any quantity of Gold is supposed to be divided into 24 parts, called Carats. If pure, it is said to be 24 Carats fine; if there be 22 parts of pure Gold, and 2 parts of alloy, it is said to be 22 Carats fine; this is the standard for gold coin, and is worth $18 95 per ounce Troy. What is called the new standard, used for watch cases, &c., is 18 Carats fine. The term Carat is also applied to a weight of 3.156th grains Troy, used in weighing diamonds; it is divided into four parts called grains; 4 grains Troy are thus equal to 5 grains diamond weight.

Apothecaries Weight.

USED IN MEDICAL PRESCRIPTIONS.

The Pound and Ounce of this weight are the same as the Pound and Ounce Troy, but differently divided.

20 Grains Troy ...	1 Scruple.	8 Drachms 1 Ounce (Troy).
3 Scruples .....	1 Drachm.	12 Ounces... 1 Pound (Troy).

Druggists buy their goods by Avoirdupois weight.

Avoirdupois Weight.

By this weight all goods are sold, except those named under Troy weight.

27 11-32 Grains .....	1 Dram.	28 Pounds ... 1 Quarter.
16 Drams .....	1 Ounce.	4 Quarters } 1 Hundredwt.
16 Ounces .....	1 Pound.	or 112lbs. }
14 Pounds .....	1 Stone.	20 Hundredwt. 1 Ton.

The Grain Avoirdupois, though never used, is the same as the Grain in Troy Weight. 7000 Grains make the Avoirdupois Pound, and 5760 grains the Troy Pound. Therefore the Troy Pound is less than the Avoirdupois Pound in the proportion of 14 to 17 nearly; but the Troy Ounce is greater than the Avoirdupois Ounce in the proportion of 79 to 72 nearly.

Apothecaries Fluid Measure.

60 Minims .....	1 Fluid Drachm.
8 Fluid Drachms .....	1 Ounce (Troy).
16 Ounces (Troy) .....	1 Pint.
8 Pints .....	1 Gallon.

Imperial Measure of Capacity for ALL LIQUIDS.

5 Ounces Avoirdupois of water make 1 Gill.

4 Gills .....	1 Pint = 34 $\frac{1}{2}$ Cubic In. nearly.
2 Pints .....	1 Quart = 69 $\frac{1}{2}$ Cubic Inches.
4 Quarts .....	1 Gallon = 277 $\frac{1}{4}$ ditto

The Gallon must contain exactly 10 Pounds Avoirdupois of pure water at a temperature of 62°, the barometer being at 30 inches. It is the standard unit of measure of capacity for liquids and dry goods of every description, and is 1-5th larger than the Old Wine Measure. 1-32nd larger than the Old Dry Measure, and 1-60th less than the Old Ale Measure.

Contents of Casks in use.

9 Gallons .....	1 Firkin.	54 Gallons .....	1 Hogshead.
18 Gallons .....	1 Kilderkin.	108 Gallons .....	1 Butt.
36 Gallons .....	1 Barrel.	216 Gallons .....	1 Tun.

Imperial Measure of Capacity for ALL DRY GOODS.

4 Gills .....	1 Pint = 34 $\frac{1}{2}$ Cubic In. (nearly).
2 Pints .....	1 Quart = 69 $\frac{1}{2}$ Cubic Inches.
4 Quarts .....	1 Gallon = 277 $\frac{1}{4}$ ditto.
2 Gallons .....	1 Peck = 554 $\frac{1}{2}$ ditto.
4 Pecks, or 8 Gals. .....	1 Bushel = 2218 $\frac{1}{4}$ ditto. (nearly).
8 Bushels .....	1 Quarter = 109 $\frac{1}{2}$ Cubic Ft. (nearly).

Gunter's Chain.

USED FOR LAND MEASURING.

7 92-100 inches .....	1 Link.
100 Links, or 66 Feet, or 4 Poles .....	1 Chain.
10 Chains long by 1 broad, or 10 Square Chains .....	1 Acre.
80 Chains .....	1 Mile.

Imperial Measure of Solidity.

1728 Cubic Inches .....	1 Cubic Foot.
27 Cubic Feet .....	1 Cubic Yard.

Measure of Time.

60 Seconds .....	1 Minute.	24 Hours ..	1 Day.
60 Minutes .....	1 Hour.	7 Days .....	1 Week.
28 Days .....	1 Lunar Month.
28, 29, 30, or 31 Days .....	1 Calendar Month.
12 Calendar Months .....	1 Year.
365 Days .....	1 Common Year.
366 Days .....	1 Leap Year.
365 $\frac{1}{4}$ Days .....	1 Julian Year.
365 d., 5 h., 48 m., 49 s. ....	1 Solar Year.
365 d., 6 h., 9 m., 12 s. ....	1 Sidereal Year.

Standard Weight of Grain.

Established by cap. 58, sec. 14, Con. Stat. U. C.

AMERICAN AND ENGLISH EXCHANGE.

The American Dollar of Exchange is Silver which contains 386.704 grains pure silver, the equivalent of which is 64 pence sterling, or $4 44 Mexican Silver to the pound sterling.

Mexican Dollars sent to England ($4 44) would be the value for value in English Sovereigns.

This is the whole mystery of the American Exchange. Although $4 44 in Mexican Silver Dollars and $4 84 in American Golden Dollars are presumed to be equivalent values in sterling, the two are not equivalent in commercial currency, there being practically no such thing as Mexican Silver Dollars in circulation. So long therefore as exchange transactions are based upon the fiction of $4 44 being the equivalent value in American currency of an English sovereign, the value of which in reality is $4 84, it is necessary to add a premium to the imaginary American standard, to bring the $4 44 to the true or absolute value.

The trade between America and England is in a state of equilibrium when exchange is 109 per cent., or 9 per cent. premium, which, if added to $4 44, will give the equivalent number of dollars to be paid per pound sterling.

Ex. 1.	$4 44	$4 44
	39 96	9 per cent.
	$4 83 96-100 per £. sterling.	39 96
Ex. 2.	$4 44	$4 44
	44 40	10 per cent.
	$4 88 40-100 per £. sterling.	44 40

The following Table makes the disadvantage of England obvious, at a glance at the different rates of Exchange down to $4 44, or the imaginary par which is variously quoted in the newspapers as 100 or as 100 per cent.

Reports of the progress and conduct of the pupils are sent to parents twice each Term, or oftener if desired. Deducting the Vacations, the Terms are ten weeks each. The Tuition Fee is $10 for one Pupil, $9 each for two (Brothers), $8 each for three (Brothers), $7 each for four (Brothers); and the Fee for Boarders, inclusive of Tuition, is $45 per Term. The many improvements made in the arrangement of the College Boarding House have been found to add very materially to the comfort of the boarders. A large paved Ball Court and a Gymnasium, fitted up with the most approved modern appliances, and a spacious play-ground and cricket ground afford ample facilities for out-door exercise and amusement within the College bounds. The Boarding House is conducted strictly as an integral part of the Institution, its disbursements paid out of, and its returns paid into, the general funds. Prizes of books and certificates of honor are given every year to those who distinguish themselves in any of the subjects taught in the College. His Excellency the Governor General offers annually a valuable Prize of Books for the best examination in the higher departments of Classics and Mathematics. At the Annual Public Examination in July Exhibitions are competed for, varying in value from $20 to $40 per annum. Competition for them all is open to the Grammar Schools of the whole Province. More than 2,500 of the youth of the Province have received their education, in whole or in part, in Upper Canada College. # THE SCIENCE OF HEALTH.

Every Man his own Physician.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS & OINTMENT.

Diphtheria, Ulcerated Sore Throat, and Scarlet and other Fevers.

Any of the above diseases may be cured by well rubbing the Ointment three times a day into the chest, throat and neck of the patient; it will soon penetrate, and give immediate relief. Medicine taken by the mouth must operate upon the whole system ere its influence can be felt in any local part, whereas the Ointment will do its work at once.

BILIOUS DISORDERS.

In whatever form disease attacks the liver, it is repelled and exterminated by these searching, painless and irresistible Pills. Let the sick whom the faculty have abandoned, resort with confidence to this powerful antibilious agent, and a restoration to health and activity will be the unvarying result.

Scrofula, Erysipelas, and Salt Rheum.

No remedy has ever done so much for the cure of diseases of the Skin, whatever form they may assume, as this Ointment. No case of Salt Rheum, Scurvy, Sore Heads, Scrofula, or Erysipelas, can long withstand its influence.

DYSPEPSIA.

The great scourge of this continent yields quickly to a course of these anti-dyspeptic Pills, and the digestive organs are restored to their proper tone; no matter in what hideous shape this hydra of disease exhibits itself, this searching and unerring remedy disperses it from the patient's system.

Piles, Fistulas, Bad Legs, Old Sores, and Ulcers.

Cases of many years standing that have pertinaciously refused to yield to any other remedy or treatment, have invariably succumbed to a few applications of this powerful unguent.

SICKLY FEMALES.

Should lose no time in trying a few doses of these regulating and renovating Pills; whatever may be their complaint they can be taken with safety in all periodical and other disorganizations; their effect is all but miraculous.

Sold at the Manufactory of Professor HOLLOWAY, 80 Maiden Lane, New York, and by all respectable Drug-gists and Dealers in Medicines throughout the civilized world, in pots and boxes at 25 cents, 63 cents, and $1 each.

There is a considerable saving by taking the larger sizes.

N. B.—Directions for the guidance of patients in every disorder are affixed to each pot.

THESE DICTIONARIES have received the approval of the most eminent literary men, both in England and America. The Royal Quarto Dictionary, although first published in January, 1860, has already become the standard work in most of the literary institutions in the country; while the smaller works, especially the Comprehensive and Primary School Dictionaries, have been extensively introduced into the best Academies and Common Schools in the United States and Canada. They are now the authorized Dictionaries for New Brunswick, as will be seen by the following

CERTIFICATE.

EDUCATION OFFICE, Fredericton, Aug. 22, 1861.

THE Board of Education having authorized Worcester's Dictionary for the use of the Public Schools in New Brunswick, I have much pleasure in recommending the work to the favorable consideration of Teachers.

WORCESTER'S ROYAL QUARTO DICTIONARY (ILLUSTRATED.)

1,854 PAGES.....1,000 ILLUSTRATIONS.

This is entirely a NEW WORK, and all the new words, synonymes and illustrations will be found in their proper place. Attention is particularly called to the following Testimonials:

From E. Ryerson, D. D., Superintendent of Public Instruction for Upper Canada.

I have for several years used Webster, as the best Dictionary of its kind—always excepting its orthography—but I regard and recommend for our Schools and Public Institutions, Worcester's Dictionary, as a very great improvement upon that of Webster's pictorial edition.

From Herbert Coleridge, Secretary of the London Philological Society, England.

Your magnificent present reached me here at length safely yesterday, and I lose no time in returning you my cordial thanks for your kindness. The London agents of your publishers, in their letter to me (which I got before the book itself), described it as a new edition of Webster, and I hardly felt inclined to be very grateful, as my opinion of Dr. Webster is but small; and my surprise and pleasure were consequently all the greater when I found out what I had really become possessed of.

As a work of practical utility, your book appears to me to be nearly perfect, and I expect to derive immense assistance from it.

From the Rev. Joseph Bosworth, D. D., F. R. S., F. S. A., of Christ Church, Oxford; Professor of Anglo-Saxon in that University.

* * * In short, it is the MOST COMPLETE AND PRACTICAL, THE VERY BEST, AS WELL AS THE CHEAPEST English Dictionary that I know, and I have therefore no doubt of its success.

From the Rev. W. Wheelwell, D. D., Master of Trinity College, Cambridge, Author of "History of the Inductive Sciences."

I have repeatedly consulted the Dictionary since it has been in my possession, and have seen reason to think it more complete and exact than any of its predecessors.

From the Emperor Napoleon.

MONSIEUR: J'accepte avec plaisir le Dictionnaire de Worcester, dont vous avez bien voulu me faire l'envoi. L'ouvrage est fort remarquable, et pour la netteté des définitions du sens de chaque mot, et pour l'exécution typographique. NAPOLEON.

From the "London Critic."

"THE absence of crotchets, fancies, dogmas, and nonsense, is not the least recommendation of this Dictionary. The etymological portions show stupendous research. * * We can only say that upon comparison with those of Richardson and Webster, Worcester's definitions do not at all suffer." We can easily believe that Dr. Worcester (as he says) expects no adequate pecuniary compensation for his gigantic undertaking; for it is difficult to imagine a sum which could adequately compensate the man who has produced the COMPLETEST AND THE CHEAPEST ENGLISH DICTIONARY WHICH THE WORLD HAS YET SEEN."

From the "Montreal Gazette."

"THIS is a work which we have carefully examined, and we have no hesitation in saying that, in our judgment, it is by far the most valuable Dictionary ever published in America, and a much safer guide than Webster's."

From the "Daily British Whig," Canada.

"Dr. Worcester's Dictionary is a better one than that of his great predecessor. It contains all his rival's excellencies, few if any of his faults, and, in addition, is much more comprehensive. It is a better Dictionary than the 'Imperial Dictionary,' than which we once thought no Lexicon could be more perfect.

From the "London Athenaeum."

* * * To conclude, the volumes before us show a vast amount of diligence; but in Webster it is diligence in combination with fancifulness with Worcester, in combination with good sense and judgment. Worcester's is the soberer and safer book, and may be pronounced the BEST EXISTING ENGLISH LEXICON.
